POISON IS FATAL TO GIRL, 21

Despondency and Reprimand from Father Prompts Rash Act

GARDEN GROVE HOME SCENE OF SUICIDE

Daughter of Former Judge Drinks Poison, Hurls Bottle at Parent

"I'm going where you can't follow me."

These words, fraught with tragedy, echoed here today as official investigation was made concerning the death of Mrs. Margaret D. Moon, pretty 21-year-old daughter of Samuel Woodruff, former Colorado superior court judge, who killed herself at his home at Garden Grove late yesterday by swallowing the contents of a vial of strychnine.

Despondency, induced by the disappearance of her husband, George Moon, coupled with a reprimand which her father had given her, for her asserted hilarity in romping with her two children, were supposed to have caused the young woman to take poison. Dr. C. C. Violett, and Mrs. Violett, were summoned, and worked frantically, but the girl died about 5 p. m. yesterday, an hour after she took the fatal poison.

Reprimanded by Father

Mrs. Moon, attired in a gymnasium suit of bloomers and a middie, had been frolicking in an orange grove at the rear of the Woodruff house with her two children during the early afternoon, the father said. Woodruff had taken her to task for her boisterous conduct, he claimed, telling her that it was unbecoming a married woman, and that it attracted the attention of passerby.

"I am going away, right now," the girl was said to have told her father.

"You can't leave tonight, with those two little ones," the judge, a Civil War veteran, said he answered. "If you do, I will follow you, to see that you come to no harm."

Hurls Bottle at Parent

"You can't follow me where I'm going," the girl responded, and taking the bottle from her pocket, lifted it to her lips, and tipped back her head.

"There, I've been saving that for this purpose a long time," the girl was said to have exclaimed, as, with an excited movement, she hurled the empty bottle at her father.

The frantic parent rushed from the house, and requested neighbors to summon a physician. When he returned, the girl, evidently repentant of her action, was drinking mustard and water, as an antidote. Dr. Violett and his wife administered more powerful antidotes, but in vain.

Sixty minutes later, Margaret Moon was dead, while her two little children, one aged four, and another aged eighteen months, unknown of the tragedy, cried for "mother."

The tragedy is traceable, according to Woodruff, to domestic grief, which had its start when Moon left his wife last fall. According to the father, the Moons had never quarrelled up to the time of their separation. Then, on the night of the twenty-first of September, Moon came home, told his wife that he had to attend a meeting at Orange of the employees of a Garden Grove feed store, where he was employed.

Husband Disappears

He never returned, the father said, and an investigation disclosed the fact that he had not attended the meeting. Records at the feed store showed that he had taken with him a large amount of the firm's cash. Woodruff stated. According to word which reached Mrs. Moon, he was last seen near Anaheim, in company with a Spanish girl from Santa Ana. Sheriff Sam Jernigan holds a warrant for his arrest on embezzlement charges, he said.

The girl was born in Colorado, but had lived at Garden Grove for the past 18 years.

Labor Leader Urges Michigan to Ignore Red Suspect

CHICAGO, April 9.—Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, today called upon the state of Michigan to "inflict the greatest punishment possible upon William Z. Foster, liberal labor leader, by ignoring him."

Will issued a statement declaring that to re-try Foster in the Michigan communist cases "would be making something out of nothing."

"The organized labor movement is unconcerned about Foster. His power and influence in the American trade unions are nil. Anyone who knows Foster knows he is simply an opportunist riding on the crest of any movement that holds an opportunity for private gain and public notoriety. And like the rainbow, he is not there during the storm."

OIL BARONS WINNERS IN COURT CASE

Trade Commission Loses in Attack on Contracts Between Retailers and Wholesalers

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The federal trade commission court today lost its test suit to compel the big oil and gasoline companies to stop the practice of lending pump and measuring equipment to gasoline "curb retailers" on contracts binding the retailers against using the products of any other wholesaler.

The commission attacked such contracts as being in violation of the anti-trust laws in that they restricted competition.

The test suit was brought by the Sinclair and Standard Oil companies.

HARDING FACES HARD WORK AS REST AT END

(By United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Back in the White House after five weeks in the South, President Harding was at his desk early this morning to tackle the large number of important problems which have piled up during his absence.

Before 10 o'clock the President was in conference with Secretary Hughes. Later he had appointments with Secretary Hoover and Senators Capper and Curtis. It is understood Capper and Curtis will discuss the appointment of the dirt farmer representative on the federal reserve board.

Indications are that the sugar price problem will be the first to force itself upon the attention of the executive.

Progressives in congress are ready to carry to Harding their demands that alleged sugar gamblers, responsible for the recent jump in sugar prices, be prosecuted to the full extent of the law and to inform him that his tariff commission investigation is insufficient to force down prices.

Next the President must decide what course his party shall take in replying to the sudden wave of activity in behalf of the League of Nations.

Next week the President is expected to have a conference with Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain, who probably will place before the President his plan for a modified league of nations, which might be acceptable to public opinion in the United States.

Other problems awaiting attention include:

The future policy regarding the American merchant marine.

What steps the United States shall take to modernize its fleet in view of Great Britain's denial that she is making her old dreadnaughts more powerful.

SLAYER ENDS LIFE

BAUDETTE, Minn., April 9.—Frank Nahodil, held in the Baudette jail, charged by a coroner's jury with responsibility for the death of Mrs. M. A. Stepan, a neighbor, committed suicide by hanging himself with a handkerchief.

Mrs. Stepan was killed in the explosion of a stove at her home six miles south of Graceton. Nahodil was arrested by the sheriff of Lake of the Woods county.

ASK MURDER CASE DISMISSAL

CRASH FATAL TO 1 AS 9 INJURED

Hold Inquest Over Driver Who Succumbs to Hurts Received In Wreck

One man was dead, and nine were injured in traffic accidents, according to reports available today.

The dead: William Winslow, 39, West Fourth street.

The injured: George Norman, Moneta. Mrs. George Norman, Moneta. William Norman, 14 months, Moneta.

Mrs. E. J. Uhrleb, Gardena. Thomas DeVoe, Los Angeles. Mrs. John Burke, Pasadena. Mrs. Fred Bergeman, Orange. H. E. Dean, Redlands. Mrs. J. E. Niles, Monterey.

Winslow died yesterday at the Community hospital here as a result of a punctured lung, rib fractures and other severe internal injuries, according to testimony introduced at an inquest, held at Smith and Tuthill's funeral chapel at 9 a. m. today.

The victim, with Miss Helen Koenig, daughter of Mrs. Martha Koenig, Santa Ana, was returning from Huntington Beach, about midnight, last Thursday, when the accident occurred.

According to statements made by Miss Koenig, who is visiting here from New York, and by Winslow, before his death, a light touring car veered and struck the machine in which they were riding.

Car Overtaken

Winslow attempted to bring the machine back into the road, but was unable to do so, and it overturned, pinning both occupants beneath it. Miss Koenig escaped with minor injuries and a severe nervous shock, which prevented her from testifying at the inquest, but Winslow was fatally hurt.

He was taken to his home and later removed to the Community hospital, where he died.

Mrs. Koenig, mother of the girl, J. R. Wright, Clinton S. Winslow, a brother of the deceased, and a physician, who performed the autopsy, testified at the inquest.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury.

The Normans, Mrs. Uhrleb, and DeVoe, were injured as a result of a peculiar chain of circumstances, occurring about 4 p. m. yesterday.

Devoe, a motorcyclist, was injured as he was returning from the annual hill climb at San Juan Capistrano. Witnesses telephoned to the Orange county hospital for an ambulance, in which to convey him to that institution.

Ambulance in Crash

The ambulance, driven by Elwood Robinson, responding to the call, struck an automobile driven by Norman, at the intersection of Seventeenth street and Grand avenue. The ambulance was damaged, and the injured persons were taken to the Community hospital by passing motorists.

When the Winbigger ambulance called to replace the damaged machine, reached DeVoe, it was found that he was suffering only from a minor laceration of his right knee.

After first aid treatment at the hospital, he was released.

Mrs. Burke sustained a severe nervous shock, following a collision.

Supreme Court Ruling Sets Aside Minimum Wage Law

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Advocates of minimum wage laws suffered a big defeat today when the supreme court held unconstitutional such a statute recently passed for the District of Columbia, by congress.

Several states have adopted similar statutes.

The law provided for a board representing the public employers and employees which would investigate working conditions of women and children and fix minimum wages.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—Concern as to the effect to the supreme court's decision, today on the minimum wage law in the District of Columbia was expressed today by Katherine Phillips Edson, secretary of the California industrial welfare commission.

She said the California minimum wage law was similar to that of the District of Columbia and that the effect of the adverse decision of the supreme court might be serious in California.

10 YEAR TERM GIVEN MAN IN FORGERY CASE

Federal Judge Sentence William F. McShane to Prison Term and $10,000 Fine.

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—William F. McShane, convicted by a jury of manipulating forged waybills to defraud fruit shippers out of $300,000, was sentenced to ten years in the federal penitentiary and fined $10,000 by Federal Judge Bledsoe today.

Judge Bledsoe ruled against arguments for a new trial made by McShane's attorneys. McShane was tried on thirty-six counts and found guilty on six, the jury disagreeing on thirty counts.

EBELL WOMEN BUY HOME FOR DAY NURSERY

Officers of the Ebelle society this afternoon were signing escrow agreements under which the Ebelle society is to buy the Bickford property at 610 Garfield street for the Day Nursery.

The Ebelle society, which has operated the Day Nursery since it was founded, has received notice that the property on East Fifth street must be vacated before May 1. Purchase of the property on Garfield was discussed at a meeting of the directors of the Ebelle society this morning at the home of the president, Mrs. John Clarkson.

The house has six rooms, is 50 by 150 feet, and has several trees upon it. It is proposed to complete the purchase at once, and transfer the Day Nursery to the property.

FOLSOM, Calif., April 9.—Ten guards and deputy sheriffs are today scouring the hills back of Folsom prison for Joe Moles, life termer. Moles escaped late Saturday afternoon from the prison farm where he had been a trusty.

Unnoticed by guards he hid out on the farm and in the evening when the men were returned to their cells it was first learned that he was missing. It is believed he escaped into the wooded country north of the prison.

A shepherd reported to the prison last night that he saw a convict along the American river a few miles north.

Moles, who has been in prison since 1902, was one of the men in the famous prison break of 1903 when five convicts and one guard were killed. Moles was serving for second degree murder.

DENY PROOF GIRL SLAIN BY JACOBS

Judge Excuses Jury In Slaying Trials as Lawyers Argue Motion

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 9.—Motion to dismiss Dr. L. L. Jacobs was made by the defense in his trial for murder of pretty Fritz Mann, just before noon today.

The motion was based on two claims:

First, that the corpus delicti, or proof of the murder of the girl, had not been established.

Second, that no evidence had been introduced connecting Jacobs with any crime.

The state rested after an attempt to prove that Jacobs was the man who signed the register at the Blue Sea cottage, where Fritz was last seen alive. Four bankers testified that the same hand that wrote checks with Jacobs signature, wrote the names under which Fritz and her companion were registered the night of the tragedy.

Should the defense fail to win on its motion for dismissal, it is said its next big card will be an alibi.

It is reported that Dr. Jacobs will present witnesses to prove that he was in a local cafe on the night Fritz went to her death and that he presented a check in payment of his bill on that night.

The prosecution, it is reported, will combat this alibi with a stenographic report of Dr. Jacobs own alibi, given when he was first arrested. They claim it is said that he told three different stories as to his movements during the hours Fritz Mann and the mysterious stranger were at the Blue Sea cottage at La Jolla. And they say that they have stenographic notes of the doctor's conversations on these different occasions.

PRISON TRUSTY IN BREAK FOR FREEDOM

FOLSOM, Calif., April 9.—Ten guards and deputy sheriffs are today scouring the hills back of Folsom prison for Joe Moles, life termer. Moles escaped late Saturday afternoon from the prison farm where he had been a trusty.

2 YOUTHS JAILED ON BAD CHECK CHARGES

As a result of their alleged attempts to pass bad checks on the proprietors of a Santa Ana pool room, Arthur Finch and Constance Baley, Fullerton youths, were in the county jail here today, pending arraignment before Justice J. B. Cox.

The boys were arrested by Special Officer Parker, as they were attempting to persuade Ed Lee, the proprietor, to accept the checks, which, police say, were fraudulent.

MANIC RUNS AMUCK; BRUTALLY BEATS BOYS

PETALUMA, Calif., April 9.—County officers today led a posse searching the outlying parts of Sonoma county for trace of an unidentified maniac who yesterday attacked Earle and Jack Wayland at their home here.

The maniac broke into the house and beat both boys and fled.

Confederate Veterans Gathering for New Orleans Session

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—With the streets already dotted with the faded uniforms of the "Boys" of the 60's, every train coming into New Orleans today brought its quota of delegates to attend the thirty-third reunion of confederate veterans, which opens here Wednesday.

Carl Hinton, Denver, Colo., adjutant in chief of the veterans, predicted that 50,000 visitors would be attracted here by the meeting.

General Julian S. Carr of Durham, N. C., commander in chief of the veterans, will preside at the reunion until his successor is elected Thursday.

The veterans' gathering will be addressed by Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion.

AWAIT BUDGET MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 9.—The legislature today anxiously awaited Governor Richardson's special message transmitting changes in the now famous economy budget, which is promised for late this afternoon.

Taking the governor's recent statement indicating an increase of approximately $450,000 would be made in the budget, as a basis, everyone was speculating as to where the additional money was to go.

At the same time there was equal interest in which items were to be reduced, because of the certainty that heavy cuts were scheduled.

It was known on good authority that the total will be slightly less than $79,500,000 when the revisions are made.

It was considered practically certain that increases would be made in the state board of health, industrial welfare commission, Whittier and Preston reform schools, the school for the deaf and blind, and probably few others.

It was rumored that the teachers' colleges—or some of them—would receive additional amounts and that the state fish and game commission would fare similarly.

Specific cuts formed a closely guarded secret. Many sources made guesses and it seemed that the majority believe the principal reductions would come in the department of education, the harbor commission and smaller cuts in other appropriations.

It was freely predicted that the appropriation for the Sonoma industrial home for women, which was recently burned, would be entirely discontinued.

BUY W. FOURTH BUSINESS LOT FOR $25,000

Indicative of an increase of 400 per cent in business property values in Santa Ana within five years, was the transaction recorded here today whereby the W. P. Fuller company, wholesale paint dealers, purchased the lot at the southeast corner of West Fourth street and Van Ness avenue, from C. M. Robbins, secretary of the Home Mutual Building and Loan association.

The price was given as $25,000. Robbins said he purchased the property less than five years ago at $5 a front foot, and that the paint company has paid in cash $350 a front foot in the present transaction.

A six-room brick building is located on the lot, which measures 75 x 133 feet.

H. B. Wilson, district manager of the paint company, which opened a local office here at 400 West Fourth street, February 1, said that the company contemplates erecting a two-story office building on the newly acquired property.

"I would estimate the cost of the proposed building at $30,000," he said. "Probably it will be on lines similar to our building at Pasadena."

"The growth of our business in Orange county makes it essential for us to prepare for permanent buildings of our own here. Right at this time we are somewhat cramped for warehouse space."

"Whether we will build before the lease expires at our present location has yet to be decided."

MYSTERY TICKETS FLAYED

Pastors In War on Anonymous Circulars Distributed Here

BALLOTING IS LIGHT THOUGH CITY ROILED

One Minister Calls Affair 'Dirtiest Trick He Has Seen In Politics'

Despite the fact that hundreds of Santa Anans seethed with indignation as the result of the circulation of an unsigned letter, distributed residences and at the churches yesterday and containing the name so-called tickets, one of them, signed as "Candidates who Real Protestant Citizens," eleven-per cent vote had up to 12 p. m. today in a principal election, investigation closed.

Numerous voters were open charging representatives of the Ku Klux Klan with having had a finger in the eleven-hour events leading to do with the distribution of the circulars.

Election officers commented on the fact that only eleven per cent of the registered voters in five of the nine special precincts had cast ballots up to noon. Many persons, in view of the last-minute, pre-election developments, had predicted that a heavy vote would be cast in the forenoon.

The polls will close at 7 p. m. Following is the number of votes cast up to 12 p. m. and the registration in five special precincts:

No. 1, consolidation of precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, junior high school—votes cast, 111; registration, 974.

No. 8, consolidation Nos. 29, 30, 31, Jefferson school—votes cast, 103; registration, 712.

No. 7, consolidation Nos. 26, 27, 28, McKinley school—votes cast, 91; registration, 884.

No. 2, consolidation Nos. 5, 6, 7, Spurgeon school—votes cast, 39; registration, 511.

No. 5, consolidation Nos. 15, 16, 17, 36, city hall—votes cast, 9; registration, 707.

Only 436 Votes Cast

Total votes cast, 436; total registration, 3788.

Since the Ku Klux Klan organization here keeps its leadership secret, no effort to check up with that organization to determine whether it was officially responsible for the distribution of the ticket was possible.

The circulation of the ticket was roundly condemned at various Santa Ana churches last night. The Rev. P. F. Schrock, from a pulpit at the First Congregational church, declared the affair to have been the most contemptible, or least trick that he has seen used in politics.

The ministers declared to the congregations that the Protestant churches and the Ministerial union had had nothing to do with the circulation of the ticket.

"If anyone says to you that the dodger was gotten out under the authority of the Ministerial union or the Protestant churches, or that this ticket was selected by them, I want you to say to that person that he is a dirty, contemptible liar. If I could say it in stronger language, I'd say it."

Yesterday morning at most of the doors of Santa Ana homes there was found a yellow dodger, left there during the night.

As church-goers were leaving their churches yesterday, they encountered men who were distributing these same dodgers. Virtually all of the distributors were strangers, it was reported. Some, however, were not.

At the First Christian church, two men who entered the vestibule of the church with the expectation of distributing the dodgers were told by the ushers that they were not to be allowed to distribute the dodgers.

The two men then retired to the sidewalk, and handed out the dodgers.

Those attending this church were prepared for the distribution of the dodgers handed out at the Rev. E. T. Porter's church. He said his congregation that the church had nothing to do with the dodgers and the ticket.

At the First Congregational church, the same was said.

Passing motorists gave chase but after a race of five miles the driver of the fleeing car took a detour and escaped.

Friends of the governor declared he undoubtedly would veto the measure and would make his message the occasion to "starble" residents of the state by disclosing methods of the highway department in letting of road contracts.

church, the distributors were roundly denounced as contemptible and miserable.

Ministers Aroused.

The yellow doggers bore these words:

"Attention to Real Protestant Voters."

"A last minute attempt, by certain Roman Catholic element, is being made to defeat certain Protestant men whose names appear on the ballot for Monday's election, by insinuating that the candidates are members of the Ku Klux Klan. Don't be deceived by such propaganda."

"Below is a list of the names of candidates who are real Protestant citizens of Santa Ana."

Then followed the ticket that was passed out mysteriously, and with some effort at secrecy, during the past week.

Those on the ticket are:

Council—First Ward: Claude L. Killen; Second Ward, John W. Tubbs; Third Ward, Charles H. Chapman; Fourth Ward, Dr. Elliott H. Rowland; Fifth Ward, N. E. Wray.

City Clerk—Ed Vegley.
City Recorder—Clinton Imes.
City Marshal—Claude Rogers.
City Treasurer—W. W. Clevenger.

Board of Education—Frank L. Andrews, Alex. Brownridge, Dr. Roy S. Horton, Marshall Keeler, Charles F. Smith.

City Attorney—Z. B. West Jr.

The Register has interviewed a majority of the men whose names appear on the ticket, and none was found who stated that he knew anything about the ticket.

Ministers Aroused.

Rosterday afternoon, telephones were busy. Ministers called each other, and members called ministers, and everywhere it was stated that church-goers were indignant.

As a result of the conference, it was stated in virtually every Protestant pulpit in Santa Ana last night that the dodger and the ticket were unauthorized, and the effort that was made on the dodger to make it appear that the Protestants were behind the ticket were condemned.

Probably nowhere was it condemned more vigorously than by the Rev. Mr. Schrock.

He said that he knew that the names of several men whose names were on the ticket were there without their knowledge or consent, and therefore unfair, and that he believed most of the names, perhaps all but one, were names of men who had nothing to do with the distribution of the dodger or the selection of the ticket.

"On positive information, I say that the names of Claude Killen, Charles Chapman and Dr. Rowland are on the ticket without their consent, and I am equally sure that there are several others who have had this injustice done to them. There are some mighty good men on this ticket, along with some that are not so good, and there are some mighty good men whose names are not on the ticket. The effort is evidently to use the good men to gain votes for others."

The Rev. Mr. Schrock said he could see no reason for injecting religious prejudices into a city campaign. He advised his congregation to vote for the candidates on their merits, without regard to church affiliation.

"So far as I know the only Catholic who is a candidate is Mrs. Lopez, a candidate for city treasurer. I am not urging you to vote for or against Mrs. Lopez, but I do urge you to vote for city treasurer without regard to whether Mrs. Lopez is a Catholic, for her religion has nothing to do with the matter."

Last night in the pulpit, the Rev. Porter said that as a "Protestant" ticket, the ticket had some queer omissions. For instance, he said, it did not have on it the name of L. Crasher, of the Rev. Mr. Porter's church, the head of the Men's Bible class, nor the name of W. H. Hoy, treasurer of the United Presbyterian church.

The Rev. Will A. Betts, pastor of the First Methodist church, made it clear from the pulpit last night that the Santa Ana Ministerial association, of which he is president, had absolutely nothing to do with the distribution of the circulars at his nor at any other church.

The Rev. Mr. Betts emphasized in unmistakable terms his belief that the dissemination of the circulars at the door of his church was not the right thing to do. It might lead to the erroneous belief, he pointed out, that the church or the ministerial association might be sponsoring the distribution.

The pastor laid particular stress on the point that voters should not permit themselves to be swayed by the circulars. There were candidates before the people, he emphasized, whose names did not appear thereon, yet who were equally worthy of support.

The congregation was deeply attentive.

"A candidate's character and his qualifications for office are the sole factors that should govern a voter in making his choice," the Rev. W. C. Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, pleaded with his congregation last night.

"You should vote," he counseled, "regardless of whether a candidate's name appears on the handbills that were distributed today."

The pastor made it clear that the broadcasting of the circulars was not in any sense a church movement and that no church, nor any church organization had anything to do with the matter.

He emphasized the fact that in the case of his church, the handbills were circulated on the church's property, entirely without the consent of executives of the church. Under no circumstances, he said, does his church ever give such permission.

As a final point, he laid stress

DEATH TAKES PIONEER OF SANTA ANA

Arrangements were today being completed for the funeral of Mrs. Hester C. Walbridge, 62, 125 West Nineteenth street, whose death yesterday followed an illness resulting from a stroke of paralysis suffered six weeks ago.

Mrs. Walbridge, a native of Illinois, who spent her early married life in Des Moines, Ia., came to Santa Ana in the fall of 1888 with her husband, the late J. W. Walbridge. This city has been their home ever since. Mr. Walbridge preceded his wife in death by five years.

Four children, all residents of California, survive. They are Mrs. Julia Walbridge Kimball, Mrs. Ruth A. Riley and B. B. Walbridge of this city and Ralph R. Walbridge of Porterville, district manager of the Southern California Edison company of that place.

In addition are four sisters and three brothers residing in the East, all of whom Mrs. Walbridge visited last year when she spent the summer months in Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado.

Funeral services, conducted by the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, rector of the church of Messiah, Episcopal, will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Smith and Tutthill chapel. Burial will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Maudie Ingram Howe will act as accompanist for the musical features of the meetings. C. M. Howe will be soloist and chorus director.

The meetings will continue indefinitely.

Romero will undergo preliminary examination May 11 at 3 p. m. Meanwhile he was held in the county jail in default of $500 bail.

Deputy Sheriff G. E. McClellan arrested him.

On the arraignment that no one ought to permit himself to be biased by the fact that the circulars in question were distributed. There were other candidates, he pointed out, whose names did not appear on the circulars and who were equally worthy of the voters' consideration.

And Who Might They Be?

L. Deimling, district manager of the company here, announced today.

Deimling also indicated that the power company was definitely planning to erect a two-story office building here next year, on the company's site at Second and Sycamore streets.

"For the present," Deimling said, "the old garage and warehouse buildings at Second and Sycamore streets will be razed, the grounds cleared, lawns sown, and the space reserved as a park."

MYSTERY MAN FOUND DEAD; PLAN PROBE

Coroner C. D. Brown was prepared to hold an inquest at 4 p. m. today at the Winblier Mission Funeral Home here over the body of an unidentified white man, apparently about 35 years of age, who was found in the bushes west of San Juan Capistrano early this morning.

The body was discovered by a trackwalker, who reported the circumstances to the sheriff's office. Sheriff Sam Jernigan and Coroner C. D. Brown investigated, and stated that the man undoubtedly died from heart trouble.

No papers or other articles by which identity might be established were found on the man's person.

OVERHEATED OVENS IN BAKERY CAUSE FIRE

Replacing of the brick and asbestos covering of the bakery ovens with a fire-proof wall of sand at 318 West Fourth street was being planned today, it was learned from H. A. Gerrard, manager of the market, as the result of the fire outbreak there at midnight last Saturday, which threatened destruction of the business block, according to the report of Fire Chief John Luxembourg.

The odor of smoldering wood drifting from the rooming house above the market gave the warning, Luxembourg said, which allowed him and his men to extinguish the fire before grave damage was done.

Overheating of the bakery ovens, and a break in the asbestos covering above the brick of the ovens caused ignition of the pine flooring in the building, it was reported.

IMPROVEMENT MADE AT PHONE EXCHANGE

Newport has been out into the regular local and long distance exchange of the Orange county Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company service, Earl S. Morrow, district manager here, announced today.

"Four sections of common battery switchboard, with two local and two long distance positions," Morrow said, "have replaced the old magneto telephone system at the beach town."

"The cost of installation with 6,000 feet of cable and other added equipment totalled $12,500."

"The work at Newport was in line with the policy of the company in its efforts to give good service, prompt service and service adequate for the purposes of the growing communities in Orange county. We believe the installation at Newport will take care of the telephone situation there this year."

'MOUNTED POLICE' IS SENTENCED TO JONE

Y. Williams.

Hemon: Words cannot describe the suffering that I endured for 20 years from Eczema on my hands and feet. They were so tender that I was unable to have my hands put in to keep the bedclothes from me. After treating with doctors without getting relief, my attention was called to Hokara. It gave instant relief. My limbs were healed and the skin on my hands and feet looked like dried beef.
I advise anyone suffering from skin disease to use
Hokara. It is a wonderful remedy.

DIG SURPRISES PROMISED IN LAND SUIT

Details of the transaction, which the defendants say, was for an exchange of walnuts and orange land here for 80 acres of land, which was alleged to have subsequently been found to be beneath water, in Minnesota, and promises of sensation details, hitherto unpublished, today served to heighten the interest in the trial tomorrow, of the suit of H. Painter against William and Etta Duncan.

Painter, in his original suit, declared that he exchanged 80 acres of land in Minnesota for walnut land, which, he claimed, the defendants told him was worth more than $4,000 an acre. Later, he said, he found the land to be in a frost belt, and otherwise inferior.
In answer filed recently, the Duncans denied the charges, and asserted that they had been defrauded by Painter, whose land in Minnesota, they declared they found to be situated at the bottom of a lake. According to their answer, Painter examined the walnut and orange land here carefully, and secured expert opinion, before purchasing it.

According to Attorney James L.
Allen who represents the defendants in the action, tomorrow's trial should be fought with surprise evidence.

"We will show," Allen said,
"that Painter secured the advice of authorities before accepting the land near Tustin."

HUFF OUTS AS SCOUT CHIEF: FINCH NAMED

Coincident with the announcement that D. Eymann Huff, El Modena, manager of the David Hewes Realty corporation, had resigned as president of the Orange county council, Boy Scouts of America, Roland E. Dye, scout executive, made public here today the information that G. W. Finch, Fullerton, has been elected to succeed Huff
as council president.

Huff, but recently re-elected as head of the council, found the pressure of personal and private affairs so great that he found it necessary to somewhat curtail his intersive activity, it was stated.
The executive board, expressing its regret at losing Huff's services, made it clear that during his administration the county scout organization more than trebled its membership.

In a resolution, the board expressed its grateful appreciation of the sacrifices Huff made during the past year and a quarter on behalf of the boyhood of Orange county.
"Finch has been interested in scouting for some time, having served with the Fullerton committee in advancing scouting throughout the northern part of the county," Dye said. "Finch is the first president to be elected from the northern part of the county. He is an active member of the Kiwanis club of Fullerton and is prominent in educational circles at Fullerton."
"W. O. Hart of Orange was elected by the district committee of Orange to fill the place vacated by Huff as one of that district's representatives to the county executive board. Other members of the county executive board beside Hart and Finch are M. B. Wellington,
J. P. Baumgartner, Alex
Brownridge, J. M. Woodworth,
Willard Smith, S. C. Hartman, E.
E. Smith and Waldo O'Kelly."

GROVE DRAIN BONDS DECISION REVERSED

A copy of an opinion was received here today from the supreme court, detailing the reversal of the decision of Superior Judge
R. Williams, in an action brought to establish the validity of the Garden Grove drainage district bonds.

The bonds failed in a first election, but were carried in second election. The matter was brought into court here, in an effort to declare the second election illegal, because of a faulty petition, but Judge Williams sustained the issue.

The case was appealed, and the decision was reversed. The official opinion was filed in the office of County Clerk J. M. Backs.

PRINCESS WEDS ARMY OFFICER; LOSES TITLE

ALLEGED BIGAMIST USES ONE HOUSE TO SHELTER 2 WIVES

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—Charged with maintaining two wives in the same house, Joseph Williams, elevator man, was today in the city jail on a charge of bigamy.

Mrs. Alice Van Nucken Williams, wife No. 1, found her husband walking in a park with Mrs. Myrtle Schofield Williams, wife No. 2. Both wives claim to be legally married to the elevator man, and he was supporting both, it is said.

The landlady at the rooming house told the police: "I thought Mrs. Van Nucken Williams was Mr. Williams' widowed sister-in-law. I knew he had been living with the other Mrs. Williams for a year."

Two ceremonies, a civil one in the quinal palace in which Premier Mussolini acted as a clerk and a religious ceremony in the beautiful Paolini chapel made available by special dispensation of the pope were performed.

The princess, who is 21 years of age, is famed as a horse woman and for her dark Savoyan beauty. Her husband is one of the best riders in the army, a captain in the crack Nizza cavalry. He is 14 years older than his bride.

Count di Borgolo, Volando renounced her royal rank and gained the enthusiastic affection of her countrymen, especially the Fascists, who hail the princess' choice of an Italian over royal foreigners who sought her hand as an ultimate triumph of Italian nationalism.

The civil ceremony lasted only a few minutes. The bride procession formed after the civil ceremony and proceeded to the Paolini chapel.

Count Macchi, master of ceremonies, led the way, followed by Royal Commissioner of Rome Cremonesi, president of the Provisional Council Ornel, and officials of different categories, according to the order of precedence.

The Paolini was simply and richly decorated, red velvet hanging closely to the wall. Tapestry, brought from Turin, was hung near the altar, while red velvet brocades covered the kneeling stools. A special tribunal for the royal family had been erected, facing the altar.

Wears White Gown. As the wedding procession entered the choir rendered a sixteenth century waltz without accompaniment.

The bride, strikingly beautiful in pure white wedding gown, the only ornament a brilliant sapphire unbreakable ring given her by the count, knelt beside her fiancé in front of the altar.

Monsignor Baccaria, assisted by his prelates and four military chaplains, performed the marriage ceremony.

When the all-important question was asked the princess, she answered "Yes" in a firm musical voice heard throughout the chapel. Rings were exchanged, and the ceremony was over.

CLASSY SHIRTS

"Where do you get those good looking shirts you're wearing these days, Man?"
"I don't. My wife does. And let me tell you she notices a lot of little things like buttons, and button holes, and stitching that we fellows never think about, that make a shirt look right."

And he should have added "fast colors, and pre-shrunk materials that stand up under the constant round of wear and washing." For those are other points about these shirts that help them pass the severest inspectors—the ladies.

Birthday Dinner
At O. B. Smith Home
Honors Octogenarian

One of the happiest of the end-of-the-week social happenings was a birthday celebration, Saturday, engineered by Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Carder Smith of San Diego, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar B. Smith, West Second street, and honoring James T. Smith, 1130 West Fifth street.

The honoree, an Indian by birth but a Californian by adoption, having resided in this state and in this community for practically thirty-five years, had reached the splendid age of eighty-two. His three brothers decided to make the event one long to be remembered and in preparation for it, Mr. and Mrs. C. Carder Smith motored up from San Diego last Thursday.

Saturday the four brothers, James T. Smith, honoree, S. Carder Smith, George W. Smith (also of Santa Ana) and Oscar B. Smith, were gathered together around the festive board for the first time for a number of years.

The delicious birthday feast was provided by the San Diego brother and prepared by Mrs. S. Carder Smith and Mrs. Oscar Smith. A pleasing part was the great birthday cake baked and sent by a family friend, Mrs. A. P. O'Malley of San Diego.

During the happy afternoon following the dinner, much entertainment was derived from computing the combined ages of the four brothers which offered the sum of 307 years, 5 months and 9 days.

"Modern Dramatists"
In Group, of Plays
Please Audience

The Modern Drama section of the Ebell meeting recently with Mrs. Harry M. Smith, was one of the most enjoyable of the season. The large living room was transformed into a theatre with the appreciative audience massed in one part of the room, while the performers occupied the stage.

The one-act play, "Ever Young," by Alice Gerstenberg, was given by Mrs. J. A. Bond as "Mrs. Payne, Dexter," Mrs. Frothingham as "Mrs. Dorchester," Mrs. Hawkins as "Mrs. Blanchard," and Mrs. Harry Smith as "Mrs. Courtney Page."

The action was supposed to take place in the lobby of a fashionable Palm Beach hotel, and these ladies, exemplifying the fashionable leisure class of society, won great applause in their interpretation of worldly gossip and the eternal striving for social leadership.

Mrs. Harry Brackett, accompanied on the piano by Miss Prudence Macomber, very appropriately sang a group of two lovely songs, "The Fairy Pipers," and "A Song of April."

Next a one-act play, "For Distinguished Service" was very ably portrayed by Mrs. Kensil Brown, as "Miss Burton," Mrs. John Estes as "Mrs. Jim Harding" and Miss Macomber as "Mary," the maid.

The plot was a triangle in embryo, and after many confidential revelations between the two warm friends, during which they are in tears and on the verge of hair-pulling, they finally straighten out the tangle and all is lovely again.

After the performance and ere the audience dispersed, all were invited to the dining room where the "flowing bowl" was presided over by the three hostesses, Mrs. Nick, Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Smith. The members and guests enjoying the occasion were: Mesdames H. Brackett, Hugh Smith, Arch Smith, M. E. Smith, C. D. Brown, Kensil Brown, Dean Johnston, W. W. McKay, P. N. Key, T. E. Cole, J. A. Bond, Florence Hawkins, Frothingham, John Estes, John, Bertram, Chenoweth, C. D. O'Call, A. N. Zerman, M. L. Fried, Schulte, Mosher, Farmer, Marks, A. G. Flagg, Jack Willey, and the Misses Ruth Frothingham, Geraldine Cole and Prudence Macomber.

Patriotic Leader
Works to Institute
A Second Federation

Members of the Woman's Relief Corps of Sedgwick Post of this city were today recalling with pride and pleasure the success attending the formation of a second W. R. C. federation in San Bernardino last week when Mrs. Estelle Ludwig of the local organization met with representatives of six corps to effect the federation.

It will be remembered that our own section became federated a few months ago when Mrs. Ludwig brought together representatives of W. R. C. women for that purpose. The results have been so interesting that other sections are demanding her aid and executive ability to effect similar organizations with the result that soon the entire southern part of the state will be federated.

Mrs. Ludwig as department instituting and installing officer for the present year, met the members of six corps at the Bernadino in the Odd Fellows hall. Represented were Pomona, Ontario, Covina valley, Redlands, Riverside and San Bernardino.

It was declared to be a wonderfully enthusiastic gathering of patriotic women. Three hundred guests were served with a bountiful noonday luncheon and the number was considerably augmented at the afternoon session.

Mrs. Emma J. Scheer, department president, and her staff of officers were present and all expressed cordial appreciation of the new departure as outlined by Mrs. Ludwig. Officers were chosen from representatives of the different corps.

Choice readings, vocal and instrumental music furnished pleasing variety to the program. The next meeting of Federation No. 2 will be held in Pomona June 8. Many comrades from the different G. A. R. posts were present to express great appreciation of the work and the need of just such meetings everywhere.

Officers chosen were as follows: President, Mrs. Hester Phelps of Redlands; senior vice president, Miss May Macintosh, Riverside; junior vice president, Foseena Ralston, San Bernardino; chaplain, Flora Gosell, San Bernardino; conductor, Esther Large, Ontario; treasurer, Helen Cook, Pomona; secretary, May Dunaway, Redlands; patriotic instructor, Alice Cooley, Covina; press correspondent, Jessie Richmond Reed, Riverside; guard, Julia Mitchell, Covina; musician, Ella Macintosh, Riverside.

Epworth League

Some fifty young people of the Intermediate League of the First Methodist church were today claiming splendid success for their party held Saturday night at the social rooms of the church.

Many get-acquainted games were followed by a short but extremely entertaining program arranged by Miss Hazel Smith. Miss Beth Nunn gave three clever humorous readings, "I've Just Been Bad All Day," "Who's Afraid?" and "Between Two Loves" after which Miss Dorothy Hurd presented two delightful planologues, "The Lilac Tree" and "Willie's Prayer."

Slight of hand performances by Fred Elliott brought the program to a close and after several lively games were enjoyed both in the social hall and on the basketball court, hot chocolate, sandwiches and candy were served by the entertainment committee headed by the Intermediate League president, Robert O'Brien aided by Miss Hazel Smith, Miss Helen Salisbury, Miss Dorothy Hurd, Lester Moon, Morris Davis and Bob White.

Enjoyment of the evening was so great that the affair will be repeated in the near future.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Calumpit auxiliary members are anticipating a happy "get-together" and a day's successful sewing tomorrow when they meet at the home of Mrs. Bertha N. Dixon, 1253 West Fourth street.

Each one is expected to bring her unfinished quilt blocks and in addition there will be many aprons of gingham, percale and gay cretonne all in readiness for making. At noon, a pot-luck luncheon will be enjoyed and the affair is expected to call out the full membership of the auxiliary as well as many friends.

The Santa Anans will journey east via the Santa Fe and will remain for about nine months.

Coming and Going
Are Many Guests

After a delightful stay in this city as guests of Mrs. Ella Campau, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jewell took their departure yesterday for their Grand Rapids, Michigan home. Senator William Alden Smith and Mrs. Smith, also members of the house-party, will remain for a longer visit in the gracious home presided over by the senator's sister, Mrs. Campau.

After a winter spent at St. Ann's Inn, Mr. and Mrs. W. Higgins, uncle and aunt of Miss Frances Lapum of the high school faculty, have departed for their home in Alameda.

Pertinent Subject
Discussed Before
D. A. R. Members

Daughters of the American Revolution, meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ella Campau with the regent, Mrs. Leonard G. Swales in the chair, enjoyed a most interesting session with the privilege of hearing an excellent address by Dr. Rufus von Kleinsmid president of the University of Southern California.

The usual business was transacted and resolutions were adopted thanking Mrs. Swales for the tireless work which had made possible the dedication of the memorial which the chapter recently placed in the memorial grave on the high school campus. This memorial consists of a granite bench and boulder with a bronze tablet bearing this inscription: "To the men and women of Santa Ana who served their country during the world war."

Miss Jennie Lasby continued her talk of the previous month on the political situation in South American republics and their relations with the United States. Mrs. H. M. Sammis beautifully sang a beautiful song "To a Hill Top," by Cox. She was accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong. Mrs. Swales then introduced Dr. Von Kleinsmid, who spoke on "International Relations."

Dr. von Kleinsmid opened his talk by saying that this was a vital question, since the United States, big and fine and powerful, must necessarily be a leader among nations whether she so desired or not and that such isolation is as impossible as is the damming of a mighty flood.

"Politicians may retard her leadership, misled by false gods of expediency, but our nation's destiny of leadership can not be escaped," declared Dr. von Kleinsmid who then gave a series of personal experiences in South American countries. By each one he proved that though these countries have been republics for a hundred years or more, tyranny is possible and the miscarriage of justice frequent and flagrant. He then dispelled any "holier-than-thou" feelings among his hearers by referring to Herrin and to Baton Rouge.

He said further that the unrest, the lawlessness, the tendency to crimes of every sort are all present to-day in the underworld of every American city and menacing situations seem to confront us on every side, at home and abroad.

Optimism, he declared, was difficult, but quoted the words of Sir Auckland Geddes, ambassador to the United States from Great Britain: "You are living on the threshold of the greatest generation that the world has ever seen."

"We can but trust to this coming generation," said the speaker in closing. "And this nation, founded on the principles of Christian faith, dedicated to the interests of humanity, must lead the nations of the world."

The session ended with a delightful social hour during which many wishes for a happy trip were extended Mrs. Swales, who with her daughter, Miss Mignonne Swales was to leave Sunday for Washington, D. C., to attend the national gathering of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Serious Trouble Over Says Oakland Foreman

F. J. Husted Declares Tanlac Completely Overcame Three Years of Indigestion, Nausea, Heartburn and Insomnia — Gains 15 Pounds.

"If it hadn't been for the Tanlac treatment, I don't believe I'd be on the job today," is the positive statement of F. J. Husted, 617 Murry St., Oakland, Calif., foreman at the Oakland Meat Packing Plant, and a resident of the city for twenty years.

"For over three years I suffered with stomach trouble and was in such a badly run-down condition during the last eight months of my sickness that I could only work about half the time. I had absolutely no appetite, the little I did eat disagreed with me fearfully, no matter what my meal consisted of. Gas bloated me till I was in misery, a sick, nauseated feeling came over me, and heartburn nearly worried the life out of me.

"Constipation was one of my main troubles and I had to be always taking something for that. I didn't know what it was to get a good night's sleep, fell off thirteen pounds in weight, and was tired and worn-out to the limit of my endurance.

"Tanalac was recommended to me and before I had finished my first bottle, I felt a wonderful change coming, and today I am better than ever before in my life. Tanlac simply fixed my stomach up in short order, gave me a ravenous appetite, I have gained fifteen pounds, sleep like a log nights and am on the job steady every day, full of new life and energy. Tanlac sure is a wonder, and I couldn't say too much for it. If I talked about it all day."

Tanalac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 35-million bottles sold.—Adv.

"THE HERO" ON SCREEN AT TONIGHT.

Those who hold to the belief that the day of the one star picture is passing in favor of the production which features a number of players of high caliber, will have their theory substantiated in "The Hero," the picture which opens a two-day engagement at the Yost theater tonight.

The name part is filled by Gaston Glass whose advent to the American screen came in the lead of "Humoresque" subsequent to a career in France films and in repertoire with Sarah Bernhardt's company. Another role of prominence is that accorded John Sainpolis, who was a member of the cast of "Shadows," a picture that recently attracted widespread attention.

Barbara LaMarr, who plays the wife in "The Hero" is a player of brilliancy and popularity. Since her discovery by Douglas Fairbanks for a part in "The Three Musketeers" her rise to stardom has been hastened by her appearance in Rex Ingram's latest production, "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Trifling Women."

Ethel Shannon, erstwhile leading woman for Ben Lytell and Doris Pawn, who has been featured in numerous productions, are also included. Then there is Frankie Lee, the gifted boy actor who is remembered as the little cripple in "The Miracle Man" and Martha Mattox, another character player, seen not long ago in "Rich Men's Wives." David Butler, many times starred in his own right, is the American doughboy.

CHARLES RAY PICTURE IS HIGHLY PRAISED.

After witnessing Charles Ray's feature production, "The Girl I Loved," on the screen of the West End theater the most exacting critic is impelled to accord that star high rank among dramatic artists both of the silent and spoken drama. Ray's impersonation of James Whitcomb Riley in this personal love story of the poet was by turn amusing, tender, pathetic and thrilling.

"The Girl I Loved" is based on a little known story in verse which Riley is said to have omitted from his complete works when it became known that in it he had bared one of the secrets of his sensitive soul. From these lines, by filming both their bare facts and implications, Mr. Ray has evolved a drama of powerful appeal for both sexes and all ages—for all who "love a lover."

All the charm of characterization with which the star has endowed his portrayals of rustic youth are in the first part, with its picture of Indiana life in 1840. Riley as a boy is shown as a part of the simple pleasures into which old and young of those homespun days threw themselves, the husking bees and barn dances of a bygone era.

Into his buoyant and merry life is suddenly thrust the note of tragedy. The young hero realizes his love for a beautiful foster-sister whom his mother has adopted in childhood. The appearance of another suitor brings him to this consciousness. The girl engages herself to the rival. Then ensues a series of swiftly moving, intense, compelling events in which Charles Ray displays his mastery of mimetic emotion.

"FLAME OF LIFE" COMES TO PRINCESS TOMORROW.

Priscilla Dean's "Flame of Life," which opens at the Princess Tuesday for a two-day run is said to be one of the year's outstanding screen portrayals. The following is what Harrison, one of the greatest screen critics, has to say of this picture:

"This vivid picture of life in the mining district of England in 1870 holds the interest in a tight grip from start to finish. Hobart

When a gentleman offers him a thousand dollars a day rent for his master's home, he couldn't bring himself to refuse.

Especially when his master was out west.

THE Snyder New Method For FEET

It is no longer necessary for you to suffer with foot trouble, weak feet, weak or broken arches, or pains and cramps in your limbs due to foot trouble and often mistaken for rheumatism, for by a new method for the correction of foot trouble everything that anyone else could do for you, you can do for yourself in your own home or room. Physicians and laymen who are familiar with the results obtained by this new method say it is the most scientific and practical method for the correction of foot trouble that has ever been offered to the public. This new method is so designed that no matter whether your arch is high or low, you can locate your own trouble and correct it without the use of cumbersome appliances and special shoes of questionable value, and you can do this in the privacy of your own home or room without loss of time, money or effort. This new method will not only give you almost instant relief from arch trouble, tired, weak, sore or painful feet, and pains and cramps in your limbs due to foot trouble, by removing the cause of your trouble in an easy pleasant, natural way, but it will restore your feet and ankles to their normal size and shape and give you a freedom and comfort from foot trouble which you have never experienced before.

Earl S. Snyder, the originator of this wonderful new method for the correction of foot trouble, has permanent offices in Long Beach, California, but has arranged to be in Santa Ana, Saturday, April 14th, at the office of Dr. H. J. Howard, in the Sycamore Bldg., corner of 3rd and Sycamore streets. Dr. Howard has made a special study of the cause, effect and correction of foot trouble. Many people are now using this new method and report a maximum relief and satisfaction which they had never experienced before. No matter what appliances, special shoes, or other means or methods you have tried, if you have weak feet, weak or broken arches, pains and cramps in your feet and limbs, or your feet ache and tire easily, you should telephone Dr. Howard and make an appointment and get this new method and correct your foot trouble, for foot trouble is often a big contributing cause to nervousness and physical exhaustion. No matter how sensitive a foot may be, it can be treated successfully with this method and very few feet are so good they cannot be improved with its use. This new method will bring you a pleasant soothing relief to your feet which you can not obtain in any other way. Mr. Snyder will be at the office of Dr. H. J. Howard, one of Santa Ana's leading Osteopathic physicians on Saturday April 14th. Hours will be from 9 to 5. You should telephone Dr. Howard for an appointment now. If you cannot call during office hours telephone for an appointment at such time as is convenient. Phone 620-W.

THOUSANDS SEE ORIENTALS IN PARADE HERE

Approximately 100 men of Southern California who Saturday night trod the hot sands of orientalism as exemplified by the degree of humility of the Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection, conferred here at a joint meeting of the sanatorium of Los Angeles, San Diego and Riverside, today were recalling their experiences and the big time they had here.

Shocks and orientals of the order trod here Saturday night 500 strong to witness the ceremonies and greet their chief, Supreme Monarch Emil N. Hefness.

The first feature of the evening was a 6 o'clock dinner at James's safe, at which were present the officers of the four sanatoriums in Southern California.

Following this there was a street parade, marked by red fire and antics by "rubes" who later were to tread the burning sands. A number of the candidates followed a trailer upon which had been arranged an imitation of the hot sand they were to traverse. A. H. Herron, of Santa Ana, was one of the novitiates crossing the desert.

"Queens" in Parade.
Three handsome "queens" rode on a float pulled by "Spark Plug," with H. W. Myrick, of Santa Ana, as "Barney Gopple," leading the wonderful racer, William ("Laughing Bill") Nichols was supreme master of the float and was the picture of contentment as he pulled at a tube attached to a couple of cuspids to represent the bowl of a pipe. The queens were W. G. Taylor, Los Angeles; Fred Blannin, Riverside, and Dr. C. L. Clelland, Santa Ana.

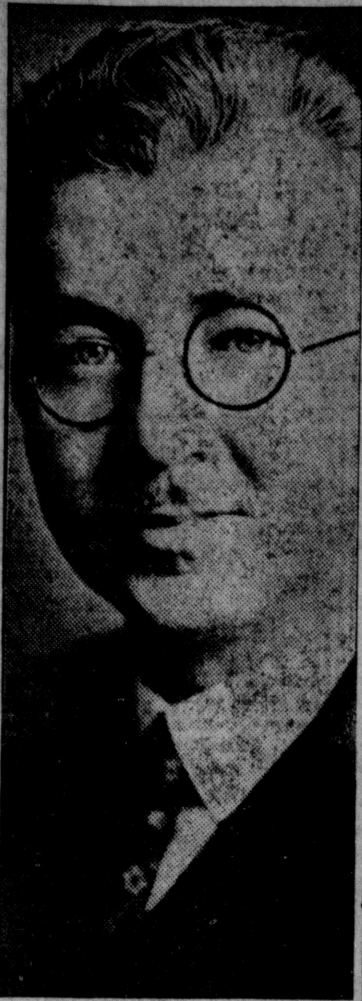

Approximately 500 were in line, with five and drum corps, the Santa Ana high school band and several clown bands, beating step for the marchers. The parade was a big success and was witnessed by thousands of persons who lined the sidewalks on the line of march.

Men picked from the officers of the sanatoriums exemplified the work in the initiation, and the lodge ceremonial moved with dispatch. The evening concluded with a banquet served at Odd Fellows' hall, where the ceremonial was held.

One hundred and seventy-five men were present from Riverside and about 200 members of the Los Angeles sanatorium. Officers here from Kallio Sanatorium No. 204, Riverside, were Herman C. Hermes, grand hyastee; Albert W. Robinson, vice grand hyastee; Carl C. Allen, registrar; W. H. Polking, horn, collector of shekels; C. R. Hutchings, banker; W. D. Drew, grand high executioner; Frey Copley, grand monitor; H. E. Young, grand herald; C. A. Thomas, grand chief guide; William McIntyre, venerable friar.

Among officers and prominent tribesmen present from Cornus Sanatorium No. 216, Los Angeles, were Grand Hyastee William Driver; vice grand hyastee,

Tells Reasons for Accepting Post As Dictator of Moose

JOHN F. RABE

"My reason for accepting the position as dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose lodge, to be instituted Wednesday is that after thoroughly investigating the work being done by the order, I have become absolutely convinced of its scope, usefulness and integrity," John F. Rabe, local photographer, said today. "Having read the full history of the organization from its inception to the present time, thus becoming familiar with all its accomplishments, I find it to be worthy of any man's affiliation and support."

"Its membership today is 600,000 distributed among 1650 lodges. The wonderful home of Mooseheart, Ill., 36 miles from Chicago, has an appraised value of $5,000,000, where at the present 1147 children are being cared for and educated, also taught a trade and given a musical training. Ninety-seven widows of deceased brothers have also found a happy home there. They act as caretakers of the children, and are paid for their services by the fraternity."

"The order also is maintaining a Home Moose Haven for the aged and their wives, 14 miles from Jacksonville, Fla., on a beautiful southern estate of 75 acres, thus eliminating the thought of fear and want."

"All this humanitarian service is being rendered at a fraction less than 4 cents per day cost to each member. So deeply has the entire work of the order impressed me, that I cheerfully assume its leadership in this city, and I most heartily recommend it to every thinking man."

According to Charles Hamilton, organizer of the local lodge, delegates from the various lodges will assemble Wednesday evening at the North Main street bridge and will parade south on Main to Third, east to French, north to Fourth, West to Birch, thence south to the American Legion hall, where installation will take place.

Installing officers will be from Los Angeles lodge No. 134, as follows: Dr. Lloyd R. Mace, Judge Channing Pollette, Gene Murphy, Mark Herron, L. E. Long. The degree team from one of the other lodges will exemplify the work.

Officers are to be installed here as follows: Dictator, John F. Rabe; vice dict., J. H. Langston; past dict., C. E. Stewart; prelate, Herman Goodman; secretary, Dr. Lewis J. Elwood; Sergeant-at-Arms, Roy Butler; treasurer, D. W. Campbell; orator, Charles W. Chamberlain; inner guard, A. E. Purington; outer guard, Neal Corson; trustees, one year, E. L. Brooks, two years, William C. Lorenz, three years, Dr. W. E. Poole.

Following the installation and talks by the various visiting officers coffee, sandwiches and other good things to eat will be served. All members of the Moose in good standing are asked to be present to assist in entertaining visitors.

Inasmuch as this class constitutes the charter members of the lodge, all who have signed must be present to take the oath at this time, Hamilton said.

PIN EARRINGS ON HATS, MAKE GIRLS' EARS OUT OF SHAPE

LONDON, April 9.—Heavy kypsy earrings of the latest fashion, some of which weigh four ounces each, are, it is claimed by beauty doctors, stretching the ears of the women who wear them and thus spoiling the beauty of the wearers.

In a recently issued statement beauty doctors warn women that the disfigurement which perhaps be permanent, for once the features of the face has been drawn out of shape it is extremely difficult to restore it to its original form.

Many women, however, are surmounting this objection to the heavy earrings by wearing them suspended from their hats or evening headresses, where the weight does no damage.

Pearly A. Casady, venerable friar, E. R. Longley, grand monitor, W. A. Lathrop, registrar, William M. Davis, collector of shekels, D. A. Hall, banker, S. T. Bronnberg, grand high executioner, J. H. Anderson, grand chief guide, Mary Tracy Hilliard, publicity registrar, Charles R. Bornetzk. Tribesmen were from Van Nuyes, Glendale, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Redondo, Sawtelle, Compton, Whittier, Montebello and Pasadena.

HIGHWAY NEEDS TOPIC OF BIG L.A. MEET

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—Members of the state highway commission, engineers and road experts of the Automobile Club of Southern California, supervisors from various southern counties and others interested in the development and expansion of the highway system in Southern California went into session here today with a view of determining on a program of highway construction to meet the needs of the immediate future.

Chairman Toy of the highway commission will preside at the meeting and Commissioner Nelson T. Edwards of Orange, and Engineer Morton, who have been going over the situation in Southern California for more than a week, will present data regarding the program for Southern California.

Chairman Toy declared on his arrival here from Sacramento that the commission has made a personal investigation of the general highway situation throughout the state and is now seeking the suggestions and advice of those acquainted with the specific needs of each section of the state.

"While we know of course, the main trunk lines of California must be given primary consideration by every official and citizen interested in the progress of California as a whole, the separate geographical divisions of California present individual problems that must be solved and it is our earnest hope that, through friendly exchange of ideas, we can work out a proper solution all down the line."

"We want to get politics out of the highway program of this State," Toy asserted, "and get everybody working in behalf of the real interests of all the people."

Loyal to Governor.
"The other highway commissioners, Edwards and Morton, as well as myself, feel that we owe a deep obligation to Gov. Richardson to carry out the policy he wants carried out—the construction and maintenance of good roads where needed. We are seeking the co-operation of the generally interested in highway development on such a basis."

"The new commission would like to make a record for itself in the way of perfecting a splendid highway system, we are full of energy and we have engineers who are highly capable and enthusiastic, but, unfortunately, we are confronted with a deplorable lack of funds."

"We shall, of course, proceed to do the best we can with the funds available and we hope the present legislature will afford us some financial relief. In fact we believe such relief will be given and that while we may not be able to make any considerable extension of contemplated projects, we shall have sufficient funds to effect greatly needed repairs and maintain the roads in good condition."

Among the most important questions to be discussed at the road conference tomorrow are: Various rights-of-way guarantees which the state highway commission has requested from southern county boards of supervisors, including a right-of-way through the Bunker Ranch over the projected Oxnard-San Juan Capistrano highway and an eighty-foot right-of-way from Whittier to the Orange county line.

It is probable that discussion also will extend to the proposed gasoline, weight and horsepower taxes and the proposed reduction of road limits for trucks.

USES FLIVVER IN SEARCH FOR LIONS

CHICAGO, April 9.—The last clash between the horse and automobile, described here by Stanley R. Graham, a Chicagoan, who has just returned from a hunting trip in the wilds of northern Mexico, has resulted in victory for the auto.

Graham discarded the old faithful horse in his hunt for lions, to substitute the trusty flivver.

His story related how he had chased lions, embracing one with only a hunting coat between him and the lion and spent nights in Mexican jails with dope fiends for cellmates.

Used Old Auto
"I used an old second-hand Ford to get around in," Graham said, "for water holes are too far apart to go from one to the other in the burning sun with a horse and dog. My trip would have been impossible without a car."

"One day when the dogs were faint from lack of water and had just finished a lion, my Mexican companion said he saw a smaller one in the brush 300 yards away. I went over to the dogs, who got him near the head. I had the Mexican grab his tail, while I threw a heavy duck coat over him. He now held his claws, so I wrapped him up nicely and carried him back to camp."

Hunter Arrested
"They change politics so frequently in Mexico that I had difficulty in keeping out of jail. Because I didn't have a permit to enter the country, with cameras and rifles, they arrested me and threw me into jail with a lot of 'hop heads.' The American customs officials across the border got me out."

A series of experiments conducted at Liverpool indicates that certain plants grow better by moonlight than by the light of the sun.

1200 LIONS TO ATTEND STATE CONCLAVE IN SANTA ANA

Representatives to Flock Here from 56 Clubs As Convention Delegates

OUTLINE BIG PROGRAM

Garden Party On Lawn Will Be Evening Feature; S. F. Musicians to Play

With the expectation that between 1,000 and 1,200 visitors will flock to Santa Ana when the state convention of the Lions club opens here, May 24, J. A. George, general chairman of the arrangements committee, today was busily engaged in active preparations for one of the most successful and pretentious gatherings of the kind ever staged in the west.

Although the complete program is not available at this time, a surreptitious peep at the advance sheets indicates that the local organization, playing host, will make originality the keynote of the three-day meeting and will leave nothing undone in a determined effort to "give the visitors the time of their lives."

St. Ann's Inn, convention headquarters, will be a beehive of activity from the moment the conclave meets on Thursday, May 24, until the farewells are given on Saturday, May 26.

Garden Party Planned. One of the most colorful features of the gathering, according to John A. Henderson Jr., secretary, will be an immense garden party, to be staged on the lawn of the Inn.

"On this occasion," said Henderson, discussing preliminary plans, "the lawn will be turned into a veritable fairland. With canopy enclosing the grounds, tables will be placed on the greenward, a huge platform will be erected, stunts will be featured, and clubs from all sections of the state will have leading parts in the evening's entertainment."

"Indications are that clubs from San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, Fresno, Stockton and other Northern and Central California points will send big delegations to the convention."

"We have been advised, for example, that it is planned by the Bay cities clubs to charter the Yale, for a special trip. This big vessel, we understand, will bring several hundred visitors."

Musicians to Attend. "In the San Francisco and Oakland groups will be several bands and a number of clever 'stunt' clubs. In addition, it is probable that bands will be sent here by a number of other clubs."

"For those who prefer to motor down, a huge caravan, including cars from the Sacramento valley, will form two or three days in advance of the opening of the convention. Machines bearing Lions will be rolling into Orange county from all sections of the state. The fifty-six clubs of the state will be well represented."

According to those sponsoring the big convention, speakers of national reputation will come to Santa Ana for the purpose of addressing the assembled Lions. Several hundred women will be in attendance. It was believed.

Opening Session at Yesta.

NEW CIRCUS CZAR TO CLEAN MORALS OF SHOW MIDWAY

THOMAS J. JOHNSON

NEW YORK, April 9.—Your morals and your pocketbook are to be protected when you visit the circus, the carnival midway, and the county fair. Thomas J. Johnson, showman "czar," is the newest dictator of amusements, taking a place alongside Judge Landis of baseball, Will Hays of the movies, and Augustus Thomas of the theaters.

"No more roll-downs, blow-offs and ejectives," says Johnson. "That means a clean-up of indecent shows and gambling concessions."

Cryptic words like these spell danger to the unwary. The "czar" explained them:

"A roll-down is a concession game where the sucker is lured on with prizes and then bilked by a mechanical trick. A squeeze is illustrated in the game of tossing balls in a bucket for prizes, which at the last moment are put out of reach of the player when the operator secretly squeezes the bucket and makes the balls bounce out."

Tells Trick Devices. "Devices of this kind, separate side-show patrons from thousands of dollars. ## CONKLIN SUIT ON KELLOGG SETTLED

Superior court attaches here today were expecting momentarily to receive formal notice of dismissal of the suit filed last week by S. S. Conklin, former business manager of the Anaheim Herald and of the Santa Ana News, against F. W. Kellogg, general manager of the Los Angeles Evening Express.

The notice of dismissal might not be filed for a week, it was stated. The Los Angeles Examiner yesterday announced as follows that the suit had been dismissed:

"A satisfactory settlement" was announced yesterday by S. S. Conklin, former business manager of the Anaheim Herald, of his sensational suit against F. W. Kellogg, general manager of the Los Angeles Evening Express.

"It was part of the agreement, for which Kellogg paid a large sum of money, according to absolute information obtained by The Examiner, that the action should be withdrawn. Conklin has accordingly instructed his attorneys, McComb & Hall, to do this and a formal motion to this effect will be made in the Orange county superior court tomorrow."

"Evidently alarmed over the many disclosures said to be in store for him should the case come to trial," Kellogg hurried to Long Beach Friday night, sought Conklin and made the proposition.

"As Conklin's one announced purpose in bringing the suit was to secure restitution of the value of his interest in the Anaheim Herald, alleged to have been seriously

EXPECT 500 AT REPORT STEADY MISSIONARY CONCLAVE

Anaheim To Be Host Wednesday to Pacific Delegates

With indications that fully 500 delegates, from all sections of California, would be in attendance, the Rev. J. A. Geissinger, executive chairman, today was completing arrangements for the quarterly meeting of the Pacific branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary society, which will open at Anaheim Wednesday at 9:25 a. m.

Featured by addresses by prominent church workers, including the Rev. Mr. Geissinger, Dr. Agnes N. Edmonds, Mrs. Mae Chisholm Brown, Miss Laura Charnock, Mrs. Marion Curtis, Mrs. S. M. Gulick, Mrs. S. F. Johnson, Mrs. Lena Leonard Fisher, Miss Marie Twinn and others, the morning session will adjourn at noon, when luncheon will be served in the Methodist White Temple, by the women of the church.

Plan Music Program. In addition to short talks by leading churchmen an appropriate musical program has been arranged, according to the Rev. Mr. Geissinger. This includes a whistling solo by Miss Maude Livingston; a duet, "Jesus Loves the Little Children," by Mrs. Byron Wilson and Mrs. L. L. Fisher, and other features.

According to tentative plans, the major part of the forenoon session will be devoted to committee reports and brief addresses. Services will open with an organ prelude. The devotional services at the morning session will be conducted by Mrs. Mae Chisholm Brown, while the Rev. Mr. Geissinger will conduct the devotions at the afternoon session, scheduled to begin at 1:30 o'clock.

The new president of the society, Mrs. Alfred Matthews, who will preside at the morning and afternoon sessions, will bring an inspiring message to the delegates. At the evening session of the society, set for 6:45 o'clock, a monster dinner will be served, with Mrs. A. W. Ault presiding. One of the principal addresses, "When West Meets East," will be delivered by Mrs. Lena L. Fisher of Los Angeles. "Young People in China," will be the theme of Dr. Agnes N. Edmonds.

Music for the young people's rally, to be held in the evening, will be furnished by the Anaheim orchestra, with individual numbers by local artists. "College Women" will be discussed by Marion F. Curtis.

The sessions of the society will be held in the White Temple, Philadelphia street and Broadway, Anaheim.

$7000 IN HAY IS BURNED AT RANCH IN SATURDAY FIRE

TUSTIN, April 9.—A loss of $7000 was caused at the Irvine ranch, near here, late Saturday afternoon when a large stack containing 250 tons of choice barley hay near the ranch house was burned. Ranch officials said the cause of the fire had not been definitely determined but that it was thought that the hay had been ignited by spontaneous combustion.

None of the nearby ranch buildings were damaged in any way, it was said, although water was played upon them to prevent any of them catching fire. All of the stock was working in the field.

The hay burned was estimated to be worth $27.50 a ton but officials said that later the price would undoubtedly be greater.

Santiago Creek at Fourth Crossing to Be Site of Undertaking

Slowly but surely, plans are moving forward toward the construction of a dam across the Santiago creek at the Fourth crossing, two miles above the County park, it was learned here today.

A tentative agreement is being drawn up under which further steps toward securing the dam will be taken. At the same time, Engineers Olmsted and Gillette, of Los Angeles, are preparing a preliminary report which is to be used as a basis for going ahead with the project.

The construction of the dam will be a joint effort by the Serrano Water company, which is a co-operative company supplying water to land owners at Villa Park, the John T. Water company, a co-operative company supplying water to property at El Modena, and the Irvine company, which owns the land where the dam is to be built.

"There are many angles to the situation," said Willard Smith, of Villa Park. "It is taking time to work the matter out, but nevertheless the project is moving forward. Just this past week, some of the data required by the engineers was turned over to them."

The dam is for the purpose of storing surplus waters of the Santiago creek.

EL MODENA SCHOOL BUILDING FINISHED

ORANGE, April 9.—The new $30,000 El Modena elementary school building, located on East Chapman avenue, El Modena, near here, stands virtually complete today awaiting acceptance by the school board, expected to be given at a meeting next week.

The building, conforming in architecture with another building in the El Modena elementary school group, will solve the problem confronted by school authorities of that place owing to the rapid growth of school attendance.

With between 230 and 250 students crowded into the present building, where three classes are being conducted in the basement, the new structure, with its six additional classrooms and a spacious auditorium, is expected to furnish immediate relief from this congested condition.

The new building was originally expected to be occupied after the Easter holidays but on account of a delay in the arrival of desks and other classroom equipment it is not expected to be available for at least two more weeks.

Plans are under consideration by the school board for opening of a kindergarten in the building, allowing the youngsters of the district to start their school careers at the earliest possible moment in their lives.

When fully equipped the new structure will represent an expenditure of $30,000, made possible by forward-looking citizens of the town who last year voted $55,000 bonds for school purposes.

The remainder of the funds was used for purchase of additional land, part of which represents the site of the new structure.

NEW POULTRY HEAD. BERKELEY, April 7.—Evan S. Hughes has been appointed head of the department of poultry husbandry at the University of Hawaii after three years' training as a poultry husbandman at the University of California. Before entering the army Hughes worked as a farmer and stock raiser, but, due to the fact that he had contracted spinal meningitis, he could not "carry on" the old job. He was granted vocational training by the United States veterans' bureau.

HE'S CAST AS POET IN ANNABELLE PLAY OF COMMUNITY FOLK

Former High School Actor Is Indigent Englishman In Stage Success

When the curtain has fallen on the last scene of "Good Gracious Annabelle," the comedy to be produced at the Temple theater April 16, 17, 18 and 19 by the Santa Ana Community players, Carson Smith will have been listed as "one of the stars of the play," according to those who have witnessed early rehearsals of the stage success.

Smith takes the part of Wilbur Jennings, "an indigent English poet," who is penniless and loves. During the rapid action of the comedy, Jennings is taken to a fashionable Long Island country estate as a gardener. He admits he knows nothing of the cabbage or lettuce but through the medium of a book he tries his best to "make the grade."

English roles are not new to Smith, who has had considerable experience behind the footlights. His first appearance on the stage was in the part of one from the old country. This was in 1913 when he took a leading part in "The Man From Home," the production staged by the Santa Ana high school graduating class of 1913.

Smith later attended Occidental college where he was a member of various dramatic organizations, played many parts and was reader with the college glee club.

SPANISH TYPE IS CHOSEN FOR HOME COSTING $30,000

FULLERTON, April 9.—Within a few days a building permit will be taken for one of the finest residences and country estates in all the Southland, to be located in Fullerton. The new home will be constructed by W. M. Muckenheimer at a cost estimated at $30,000 and will be located on the Carhart tract at Malvern avenue and Rose Hill drive.

The home will be of the Spanish type and it is the plan of Frank Benchley, architect for the new building, to create one of the finest country estates in Southern California.

The home will be surrounded by eight and one-half acres of beautiful landscaped estate that will include a number of outbuildings and possibly a lodge at the entrance of the estate.

The foregoing is only one of a number of plans that are on file in the office of the Benchley firm, and are expected to be fulfilled within a few weeks. Another building permit which is expected to be announced within a few days will be that of a huge storage and warehouse that will be located along the right of way of the Union Pacific, and it is said, will be larger than any similar structure in Orange county.

This will have the effect of making Fullerton the clearing house for a huge amount of shipments that are now being transferred out of this district by means of motor trucks to the larger warehouses in Los Angeles and other cities. It is understood that the Union Pacific will finance the storage plant.

FATHERS, SONS BANQUET PLAN FOR CHURCH

According to an announcement made today by H. G. Nelson, principal of the Junior high school here, arrangements are under way for a father and son banquet to be held at the Congregational church Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Boys of the school and their fathers are expected to be present and preparations are to be made to entertain 250 persons. Women of the church will cater.

The Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial church, will be the principal speaker, and there will be brief talks by some of the boys and fathers. Elmer Heidt, manager of the local branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California, will lead the singing and there will be special music by the boys' glee club.

Banquet tickets are 50 cents each and may be procured at the Junior high school. Nelson said that men who desired to "borrow a son" for the evening would be accommodated if they would make the fact known to him.

PROMISE WORK FOR HUNDREDS AS NEW FIRM TO RE-OPEN WOOL MILL

Corporation Will Expend $100,000 In Doubling Plant Capacity

EXPERT TO BE HEAD

Big Annual Payroll Forecast for Employees As Plans Announced

Expenditure of approximately $100,000 in remodeling and enlarging the woolen mill at the corner of Washington avenue and Santiago street to double its capacity, employment of from 200 to 300 men and women, and establishment of a large and permanent manufacturing enterprise here is the big program of the Santacala Woolen Mills corporation, as announced here today by R. L. Stewart, following completion of the reorganization of Santa Ana Mission Woolen Mills company.

Indicating the strength of the company and its purpose to establish a permanent enterprise, it was announced that Samuel L. Deane, recognized as one of the best textile mills operators in America, has resigned as vice president and general manager of the Imperial Cotton Mills at Los Angeles, to accept the presidency of the local company and manage operations of the plant here.

It was around Deane's reputation and capabilities that the $3,000,000 mill in Los Angeles was financed and placed in operation. He will assume an active part in the financing movement now under way to establish here one of the most modern mills in the country.

Capitalized at $300,000.

The Santacala Woolen Mills corporation is capitalized at $300,000. Plans for remodeling the mill have been completed, the company reports. The construction work will be under the supervision of E. W. Thompson, Los Angeles representative of Gregg and company, New York, textile mill engineers.

The men behind the Santacala Woolen Mills are among the most prominent business and financial men of Santa Ana. P. A. Robinson, former president of the Mission Woolen Mills company, is chairman of the board of directors, and the new company will have the advantage of his experience as a mill operator.

Two vice presidents are S. H. Finley, a member of the board of supervisors of Orange county, and formerly a colonel in the Spanish-American war, and Stanley P. Allen, president of the Merchants' Mortgage company of Los Angeles, and formerly secretary of the state board of control.

The secretary is Horace Fine, a member of The Register staff, who also is connected with one of the important financial institutions of Santa Ana.

Hermion Treasurer. The treasurer is J. K. Hermion, vice president of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank, in charge of the Santa Ana branch of that bank.

BALBOA IS SCENE FOR MOVIE SHOTS

BALBOA, April 9.—Mayer Production company has a group of men at work on the famous water-mark, the Margaret C. trading schooner that has been at anchor in Newport Bay for many years, and was the property of the Balboa Boat Works until sold by them to the Mayer Production company.

It is thought that the Margaret C. will look like what she is not within another week, and the shooting is to commence immediately. The name of the forthcoming production has not been announced as yet, but the center of interest for movie locations fans is West Newport while the reconstruction period is on.

The Halperin productions made a few shots at Balboa Island Wednesday, spending the day with cameramen at various points of the beautiful spot and getting many views of homes and water scenes.

Thursday about twenty members of the Al St. John company came to Balboa and have been actively doing water scenes about the waters of both ocean and bay. They used the yacht "Comfort" for their work.

NEXT WAR TO BE FOUGHT WITH GAS BOMBS PREDICTION

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—Dr. E. G. Wilkinson, traveler, in an address here on the "Coming World War," predicted that the next war would be fought with gas bombs that would easily destroy a city of 100,000 inhabitants.

"We have reached the supreme hour in the world's history," Dr. Wilkinson said. "The next war will not be fought by armies or by battleships—but by flying torpedoes, gas bombs and bacilli bombs."

"In the next war poison gases will be used that will penetrate wool and leather. One drop of the gas on the bare skin of the foot will destroy that member. It will smother the life of all who breathe it. The contents of one shell will kill everything, animal and vegetable, within an area of five acres and will spread over adjacent areas and do serious damage."

ber of the state board of control and was the first real estate commissioner of California. Forgy is a well known local attorney, a member of the legal firm of Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus.

Santa Ana men who are behind the new organization regard the acquisition of Deane as president and manager as a master stroke, and state their belief that his connection guarantees success. He comes to Santa Ana with thirty years' experience in the largest textile centers of the New England and Southern states.

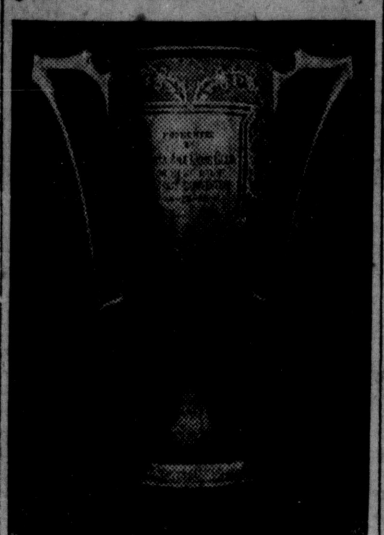

Ability Recognized. It is pointed out that when the Imperial Cotton Mills company was organized in Los Angeles more than a year ago, Deane was selected to be its vice president in charge of production, after a thorough investigation as to his ability. It is said to be well known in textile circles that under guidance of Deane the Imperial mill has been turning out some of the finest cotton goods in the line of denims, ducks and twills at a minimum of production costs. Deane's wide range of experience as a textile mill operator includes the making of woolen goods, and it is predicted that under his management the local mill will soon be placed on a highly profitable basis.

Deane says that he contemplates here a business volume of $1,000,000 annually. He declares that orders can be taken immediately for the entire output for the first year. Orders will be booked just as soon as delivery can be guaranteed.

To Boost Loom Capacity. The Mission woolen mill is a familiar plant to the people of Santa Ana. It has not been in operation for some time but was a profitable enterprise during its period of operation. As the mill now stands it is equipped with nineteen looms, which will be increased to forty looms by the new company. Blankets will be the principal product of the mill for the present Deane says, but later on the company contemplates making bathrobes and woollens for men's clothing.

"Santa Ana is an ideal location for operating a woolen mill," said Deane. "Working conditions here could not be better. We are close to the market and shipping facilities are adequate. The output of the Santacala mill will be quickly absorbed by the Pacific coast market, so great is the demand for the class of goods we will turn out. As a matter of fact, the output of several mills like our plant could be sold with ease, consequently the Santacala mill should be put on a profitable basis from the day we begin operations.

This beautiful cup, 11 1/4 by 8 1/4 inches, will be presented by the Santa Ana Den to the Lions club putting on the best and most original stunt at the big convention to be staged here next month. ## INDEPENDENCE TO BE CELEBRATED BY URUGUAY IN 1925

MONTEVIDEO, April 7.—Uruguay is to celebrate a centenary of independence in 1925. The government is anticipating the important event by providing for a new governmental palace to be erected in the capital, Montevideo. This palace will contain the offices of both the municipal and national governments. Several American architects will submit drawings in the international competition, which will close on Aug. 8 of this year, to provide plans for this important building. The winner of the competition will receive a prize of $8500; the second prize will be $4250 and the third $2550.

"It is a genuine pleasure for me to become a resident of Santa Ana and identified with its industrial development. The city needs more payrolls and we are endeavoring to do our part in this connection by building a mill that will mean not less than $300,000 annually to the workers of the city. As this money will go immediately into the channels of trade, the business houses here will be largely benefited. I sincerely hope this is only the beginning of a new and greater industrial development for this enterprising city."

1200 LIONS TO ATTEND STATE CONCLAVE

The opening session of the convention probably will be held at Yost's theater, with other sessions in prospect for St. Ann's Inn and the Temple theater. Registration will begin Thursday, May 24.

District Governor Ray L. Riley, state controller, will preside at the opening session on Thursday and other officers will assist him in conducting the affairs of the convention.

Preparatory plans call for motor trips about the city, side journeys to Laguna, Newport Beach, Huntington Beach and other points of interest, with the members of the local club, the Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies assisting.

ing in the entertainment of the visitors.

"Stunt" Teams to Compete. Special emphasis will be laid on the stunts to be staged by the competing teams on Friday night, when beautiful prizes will be awarded those making the best showings.

"It is hinted," said Secretary Henderson, "that many of the stunts will be of an educational nature, while others will be modeled along patriotic lines. Through the life of the convention, the patriotic motif will be stressed, while education, a thing the Lions club is virtually interested in, will find its rightful place."

Chairman George said today that he hoped to be able to announce one of the most pleasing programs ever offered for a similar event. He is working tirelessly in an effort to complete the details of the program.

An Opportune Time to Buy Good Rugs

The Name "Whittall" Stands for Quality in Rugs

—So well recognized has the Whittall standard become that the same prestige the "Hall Mark" gives to silver, the name "Whittall's" gives to the rug or carpet into the back of which it is woven.

—Whittall products have long stood unequalled at the very apex of rug excellence. The merit and artistic beauty of Whittall copies of Oriental rugs closely conform to the traditions of Eastern Art, thus enabling one to get the same rich effect with Whittall products as with Orientals but at far less expense.

—All Whittall productions are made from imported Oriental wools—the toughest, strongest and most resilient, giving the greatest wear. Every detail of Whittall manufacture measures up to the highest standard. An army of experts is required to make the raw wool into the finished fabric—the success of each process assured by the use of the finest machinery and the most efficient of help procurable.

—Chandler's are direct mill representatives for Whittall rugs, and constantly carry in stock an unusually wide selection of patterns and sizes in the various Whittall qualities.

—If you contemplate purchasing high class rugs, it is Chandler's advice to their patrons to do so now or in the immediate future. The present time is opportune to effect a worth-while saving.

—The cost of producing good rugs has recently advanced quite materially. Fortunately we have in stock an unusually good selection of famous Whittall and Sanford and other high quality rugs, bought before prices advanced which we are still offering at the original low figures. On shipments arriving in the future it will be necessary to add the increased cost to prices.

—You will now find here one of the most extensive collections of patterns and grades of rugs in Southern California especially in high grade Wiltons, the latest patterns from some of America's leading mills including Whittall's, Sanford's, etc.

—Whittall's reproductions of Oriental rugs in new beautiful designs and color combinations in Anglo-Persians are priced here at $135., Teprac Wiltons $96., and Body Brussels at $68., for the 9x12 size. Other room sizes up to 11.3x15 and small rugs at proportionate prices.

—Sanford Wiltons in the 9x12 size are $75., 9x12 Axminsters range from $35. to $65., and we are featuring a big line of 9x12 Tapestry rugs at $30.

—Chandler's also carry in stock a wide assortment of other high grade floor coverings including Armstrong and Nairn's linoleums, stair carpets, and many new patterns in carpets by-the-yard to supply the increasing demand for carpeted floors.

COMPANY PICKS NEWPORT FOR INVESTMENT

NEWPORT BEACH, April 9.—Following an investigation for several weeks, Munro, Watts & company, fiscal agents for a large Los Angeles financial institution, made the announcement today that they are prepared to finance the construction of homes and buildings in the Newport Harbor district and will spend at least $200,000 if there is a demand for that amount of money.

The Newport Engineering company, which recently opened offices in the Sharp building, will take care of the details of building and will erect houses for sale, first starting on Newport Heights. Any meritorious building proposition will receive prompt consideration. It is planned to begin the erection of fifty homes at once.

For the present Munro and Watts will have offices in the W. A. Irwin office, but later will establish headquarters of their own. Russell Munro is a well known figure in the real estate world, while his partner, R. H. Watts is equally prominent in financial circles. They have conducted extensive operations in Vancouver, portions of Texas and coast cities.

That a company of this nature is sorely needed in this section has been known for some time. Their rates of interest are low and it is stated that the company will finance up to 100 per cent if the inspection of the property and location warrants it. Mr. Watts made the following statement:

"We have made a careful investigation of Newport Beach and surrounding territory and believe that this will be the coming Long Beach of Southern California. There are no rip tides here, land values are not high, your beach for miles is the cleanest and prettiest on the coast and the scenic beauty of the shore from here to Laguna is unsurpassed. The opening of the Coast highway will bring thousands of tourists this way.

"The first thing your town needs is a first class hotel to accommodate these people. It would be foolish to bring prospective settlers here if you have no accommodations for them and an investigation of Newport and Balboa shows that houses and living accommodations are scarce. In fact the advent of a few hundred people, in addition to the normal summer demand, would wipe out all reserve rooms to be had. You must first prepare to house the people before you try to bring them in. A tourist who cannot get ample hotel facilities will not tarry long in a town.

"We find that Newport Beach is progressive. It is building miles of paved streets, it has installed a sewer and modern lighting system and it is destined to grow. I predict that this community will have 5,000 people inside of the next two years. We are here to loan the money; it is up to the people whether they want it or not. If we have the faith to put our money in buildings, property owners should not hesitate to use their land to enhance values."

Munro and Watts have opened offices in Santa Ana with George Jarrett in charge and are now building a 14-unit bungalow there. They have recently completed building projects in Hollywood totaling $675,000 and in Wilmington of $110,000.

ROTARIANS OF COUNTY BACK AT DESKS

ANAHEIM, April 9.—Anaheim Rotarians had returned here today from the first annual district conference held in Pasadena and declared it to have been one of the greatest epochs in the history of Rotary in Southern California. Anaheim, with a membership of 34, averaged 98.25 per cent in attendance for the year, with twenty-five consecutive 100 per cent meetings.

Anaheim's neighbor, the Santa Ana Rotary club, local members said, holds the world's record in Class C for attendance. For the purpose of computing membership attendance the clubs are grouped in classes according to their total membership.

The local members brought back with them a list of the Orange county Rotarians present at the convention. The list follows:

American - Japanese Comic Opera to Be Given at Fullerton

FULLERTON, April 9.—"The Little Tycoon" an American-Japanese comic opera, written by Willard Spenser, has been selected by David L. Wright as the play to be given April 12 and 13 in the auditorium of the Fullerton union high school. The play will begin each evening at 8 o'clock. The costumes, scenery and lines are said to be exceptionally bright and those who have seen the play before say the entertainment will be in keeping with them. There are several tuneful songs to be sung and the music is often interspersed with clever dialogue on the part of the actors and actresses. Harold E. Wahlberg will conduct.

SENATOR OFFERS STATE MAPS FREE

ANAHEIM, April 9.—Senator Shortridge has for distribution a few copies of topographic maps of California. These maps retail for twenty-five cents when bought direct from the geological survey, but the allotment of the senator, will be distributed free, according to an announcement received here today.

The United States geological survey is making a topographic survey and atlas of the United States. The Unit of a survey is a quadrangle measuring fifteen minutes, thirty seconds, or one degree each way, an area covering 1-16, 1-4, or one "square degree." The unit of publication is an atlas sheet, sixteen and one-half by twenty inches, and each sheet is a topographic map of one of the above areas.

Each map is designated by the name of some well-known place or feature appearing on it, and the names of published maps of adjoining quadrangles are printed on the margins. The maps are engraved on copper and printed from stone, in three colors. The cultural features, such as roads, railroads, cities and towns, as well as the lettering are in black; the water features of relief—hills, mountains, etc.—are shown by brown contour lines. The contour interval differs according to the scale of the map and the relief of the country. Some maps of areas that are economically important do not conform with the general scheme; these are called special maps.

Requests should be addressed to the Senator's Washington office, 428 Senate Office building.

TWO FARM CENTERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

It will be "Florida Night" and the speakers will talk on conditions as found there during their trip. Included among those who will give descriptive addresses are C.

RED CROSS MEN ART EXHIBIT IS TO ORGANIZE NEW CORPS AT LAGUNA

NEWPORT BEACH, April 9.—With the formation of a life saving corps at Balboa, steps are being taken by Antor Deregga to organize a similar corps at Newport and he has enlisted the services of M. Stimberg to aid in recruiting members for this work.

The corps operates under the direction of the American National Red Cross and has the approval of the government. That such a staff is necessary on this beach has been shown time and again by the rescue of bathers who get beyond their depth. When such work is left to individuals, who are not always trained for such work, the life of the bather is in danger.

The establishment of a corps will result in the training of men for this kind of work and will also furnish protection on the beach. Volunteers are wanted and application should be made to Mr. Stimberg. Balboa has already organized its corps with Deregga in charge. He announces that his corps is fully equipped for practice and thus far has procured a dory, two cylinder floats, first aid barks, alarm horn, signal flags, stretcher, anatomical and first aid carts for instruction and some surgical instruments. Sufficient equipment is not on hand for the entire beach and a petition was presented the board of trustees Monday for additional life saving equipment. The Balboa corps consists of the following membership:

Commodore, W. E. Longfellow, Washington, chief field agent; Dr. G. H. Richardson, San Francisco, director, first aid; Duke P. Kohanomonku, Honolulu, captain and instructor; George Chaffey, C. W. Leffingwell, Alphonso E. Bell and Dr. Ford A. Carpenter, honorable members. Regular members, H. L. Sherman, president; Harold Fink, Ross Greely, Antor Deregga, Rowland Hodgkinson, Dr. Leon J. Rott, William Collins, Robt. Zumbach, Joseph A. Beck, Chas. Plummer, Harold Knight, Donald Novice, Nicolas Samofaloff, Albert Verdier, Claude Corbin, George Wilson, Forsyth, Rainbolt, G. B. Bampton, G. T. Constantine, Rodin, Everett Boone, Fred A. Storey, Frank Davenport, Pet Williamson.

CAPISTRANO IS SAID TO HAVE BIG FUTURE

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, April 9.—Nestled in the foothills on the eastern slope of the great Santa Ana mountain range, twenty-five miles south of Santa Ana and seventy miles north of San Diego, is located the beautiful and historically important town of San Juan Capistrano.

Mission Attracts
Its name is derived from the mission situated on the northern approach directly on the state highway. This interesting mission was founded in 1776 and built by the Indians under the direction of the Franciscan Friars. Few tourists fail to visit the mission where they are told bits of ancient history and shown curios and relics.

A casual investigation is all that is necessary to convince the most skeptical that the permanency and future rapid growth of San Juan Capistrano is assured. Fanned by breezes from the towering mountains on the one side and from the warm waters of the Pacific on the other, the Capistranos proudly boast of a climate second to none enjoyed by southern California cities.

Modern Cafes
Capistrano is located on the highway between Los Angeles and San Diego. It is famous for its modern cafes where every comfort is afforded the visitor. The guests are greeted with that hospitality which is characteristic of southern California towns. As yet few of the surrounding tracts have been placed on the market and consequently the lands are undeveloped, but when this is done, it is rumored it soon will be, there is sure to be a mad scramble for building sites and acreage property.

Capistrano boasts of many excellent business buildings as well as a model walnut packing house. It is on the main line of the A. T. and S. F. railroad from Los Angeles to San Diego and it is also confidently expected that the Salt Lake line, which is now building in northern Orange county, will reach Capistrano, giving the community a double rail outlet for its products.

Considering the superiority of its semi-tropical climate, the abundance of good water, the fertility of its rich black soil, its close proximity to Laguna bay, and its geographical location with reference to its distance from competing towns, it does not require one of an imaginative mind to predict a promising future for the ancient mission town.

E. Utt, Tustin; W. F. Crist, D. W. Roberts, D. F. Campbell, L. C. Filpen, Mrs. C. E. Utt, Mrs. W. F. Crist, and others.

Women folk, who attend the meeting, will be chiefly interested in a series of talks by a woman's committee on "Things That Impressed the Ladies on the Florida Tour."

The meeting which is open to everyone will start at 7:30 o'clock.

MICHAEL'S WEDDING GIFT

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim. Arrgt. NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife but later learns that she is not legally wed to Michael. Sayers, in hiding with two lumbermen, plans to waylay passing tourists and rob them of their money. He rescues Lord Kindersley and his daughter when their car runs wild and goes as chauffeur to Boulogne.

Michael hears that Janet is to marry Sir Norman Greyes. Sir Norman follows Janet to Westminster and proposes an immediate marriage. Janet, in love with Greyes, feels guilty because she has killed a man.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
It was exactly two months after I had left Versailles when Norman Greyes walked into my little sitting-room in Smith street, Westminster, where I was busy typing a play for the agency which occasionally sent me work. Before I had got over my surprise at his coming, I felt his arms around me—and every atom of strength leaving my body. The most wonderful moment of my life had arrived.

"When will you marry me, Janet?" he asked a little later on, when he had set me back in my chair and seated himself by my side. "Marry you?" I gasped. "How can you talk of such things?" "Simply because they have to be talked about before they can be undertaken," he replied. "I look upon you as Michael's widow, but for him to care for you as you are going to care for me."

"You forget," I told him, "you forget that I too—" "Janet," he interrupted, "nothing that either of us could do, no penance we could undertake, would bring Ladbroke back to life. His widow has her pension; I have seen that for the rest, you must forget as I have forgotten."

"I killed him, Norman," I faltered. "I have killed men myself in my day," he replied, "and I shall probably kill Michael, if he is still alive, before our accounts are finally settled. That affair does not concern us any longer. You acted on a momentary impulse. You were protecting the man whom you fancied, at that time, you cared for."

"I was doing more than that," I told him. "I was avenging myself. I was a stupid girl in those days—but I had ideas. No man had ever kissed me upon the lips. He took me unaware. If I had had the weapon in hand then, I should have killed him without any other thought."

I saw a look almost of content in the face of the man I loved. "I always guessed that there was something of the sort," he said. "The immediate question is, when are you going to marry me?"

I suppose I was weak, but all women are weak when the man they care for pleads. Just as I was, in my shabby clothes, we went out to a restaurant in Soho and dined. All the time we made plans, or rather he made plans and I listened. My long struggle was at an end. We were to be married almost at once, to travel for a time in Italy, Egypt—all the places I had longed to visit—and afterward settle down in the country and forget.

There were crowds of people at the house in Southwell Gardens where Norman's sister was giving a reception for us after the wedding. Everybody was wonderfully nice to me, and made new friends at every moment. Just as I was warned that it was time for me to go and change into my traveling gown, an uncle of Norman's, a Mr. Harold Greyes, asked me to show him the pearl necklace which had been Norman's present to me. At the far end of the room, seated in a chair and apparently taking little interest in the proceedings, was the detective who had come from Scotland Yard to watch over the jewelry.

"I know that you have only a moment to spare," Mr. Greyes said to me. "I will just look at the pearls and be off."

I pointed to where the necklace was lying in its case. My companion glanced downward, frowned, adjusted his eyeglass, dropped it and turned to me with a little smile.

"Quite a reasonable precaution," he observed, "but was it necessary with a detective in the room?" "I don't understand," I told him, a little bewildered.

"The substitution of the necklace," he explained. "I leaned down and felt a sudden thrill of apprehension. The necklace, which was twined around its setting of ivory satin, was one which I had never seen before."

"My pearl necklace has been taken within the last half-hour," I exclaimed. "This is an imitation one which has been substituted!"

The detective first closed the door and then came back into the room. Besides myself and my companion, Mr. Harold Greyes, there were present a very charming girl called Beatrice Kindersley, a great friend of Norman's, an elderly lady, Mrs. Phillips, and a slim, soldierly looking man who was a complete stranger to me.

"Dear me," the latter exclaimed, "this is very distressing! A great many people have passed in and out during the last half-hour."

"It is only within the last three minutes," the detective said, "that I have moved to the farther end of the room. May I ask, Lady Greyes, if everyone here is known to you?"

"Miss Kindersley, certainly," replied, "and Mrs. Phillips, don't think I have met you, have I?" I added, turning to the man.

He looked at me with a rather peculiar smile. I cannot say that he actually reminded me of anyone, yet something in his appearance filled me with a vague sense of uneasiness.

"I fear that I have not yet had that honor, Lady Greyes," he acknowledged quietly. "Your husband, however, is an old friend. My name is Escombe—Colonel James Escombe of the Indian Army."

"If you are unknown to Lady Greyes, I must beg you to remain until Sir Norman arrives," the detective said.

Beatrice Kindersley, who had been standing looking on, suddenly began to laugh.

"Poor Colonel Escombe!" she exclaimed, passing her arm through his. "Why, he's one of Dad's oldest friends. He hates weddings and functions of all kinds, but he persuaded him to come here because he had met Sir Norman in India once. Please, Lady Greyes, may I take him away? We promised to call for Dad at his club, and we are half an hour late already."

The detective was obviously disappointed. I murmured something conventional and shook hands with both.

"I may be permitted, although a complete stranger," Colonel Escombe said as he bent over my fingers, "to wish you all the happiness which I am sure you deserve."

They passed out, without any undue haste, laughing and talking to one another. The detective hurried away, on the track of some fresh inquiry. I moved back, urged by some irresistible impulse, to the case where the imitation necklace was lying. For the first time I noticed a label attached to it. I turned it over and read two words, written in a familiar handwriting: "Michael's Gift."

Suddenly Norman came hurrying in, already changed into a gray tweed traveling suit. He thrust his arm through mine and swung me toward the door.

"Janet dear," he said, "you have exactly a quarter of an hour."

"One question, please," I begged. "Did you ever know a Colonel Escombe in the Indian Army?"

"Never in my life," he answered. "I saw the detective hurrying toward us and I clutched Norman's arm."

"Norman," I whispered, supposing the necklace—"Well, dear?"

"Supposing it were stolen?" His grasp on my arm tightened. "I shouldn't care a hang, sweetheart," he whispered, "so long as we catch that train in half an hour and I have you all to myself for the rest of my life."

Michael Resumes: The greatest genius in the world cannot foresee all contingencies. It has always been my practice to leave something to Fate. How on earth I was going to get out of the house in Southwell Gardens, if the theft of the necklace were discovered before I could get away by natural means, I had been quite unable to decide. Fate (however, settled the matter for me. I left with flying colors, rescued by the girl with the steadfast eyes, whose lips had mocked at danger on the precipice of the Forest of Dean.

"Where to?" she asked, as we took our places in her automobile.

"To the British Museum Tube, if you can take me so far," I answered.

She gave the order to the chauffeur through the speaking-tube. Then she leaned back in her place. Her expression puzzled me.

"You are disturbed?" I ventured.

"I am unhappy?" she answered. "You regret your intervention?" She shook her head.

"It is not that. You stole the pearls."

"Of course I did," I admitted. "You are a thief!"

"I never pretended otherwise." Her eyes filled with tears.

"Will give you that credit," she whispered eagerly. "Can I—would it be possible for me to buy the pearls from you?"

"For what purpose?" I inquired.

"To return to Lady Greyes, of course. Don't you see that I am partly responsible for their loss?"

"My dear young lady," I said earnestly, "the pearls are yours, with pleasure. I took them because the dramatic side of the theft appealed to me. Norman Greyes and his old friend, Escombe, has hunted me as only a man can hunt man. His wife is an old acquaintance. It flattered my vanity to attend his reception unrecognized and to help myself to his wife's pearls. Allow me."

I took off my silk hat and laid it upon the opposite seat. Then I passed my hand slowly over my hair, pressed the top of my skull and handed her the necklace. She looked at it with her eyes wide open in wonder.

"I appreciate your surprise," I told her. "As a matter of fact, this false top to my head is one of the most ingenious things my friends in Paris ever made for me."

The car pulled up outside the Tube station. The girl held out her hand.

"I think that you are a very terrible and very wonderful person," she said. "Anyhow, I like to think that I have paid a part of my debt."

The madness had me in its grip. I lifted her fingers to my lips. I laughed in my soul because she made no effort to withdraw them.

"The whole of it is paid," I told her, and turned away.

"My Mystery Advertisement," tenth story of this remarkable series, will begin in our next issue.

HEALTH TALK NO. 30

By J. G. Kelly, D. C.

Did you ever stop to consider the cost of doing without HEALTH?

We all admit the necessity of good health, but how many of us give the matter sufficient thought to realize the cost of poor health.

Frankly, we should be just as much concerned about keeping our bodies in perfect running order as we are about looking to the welfare of our automobiles. If we neglect them, they soon become big troubles, and then we begin to pay. Most of us have our cars looked over occasionally to prevent that very thing.

How many of us show the same consideration for our bodies? Do we care for the little troubles as they arise, or do we wait until they become serious? Strange, isn't it, that we seldom count the cost of neglected HEALTH?

We must absolutely get away from the idea that we cannot afford to care for our health. Let us rather be convinced that the cost of ill health is far more expensive than going to the chiropractor to get well and keep well. The one incomparable gift you possess is your health. You cannot afford to do without it. Let me explain more fully why Chiropractic is the better way to health. Consultation is free.

REGRETTABLE SITUATION

A most unfortunate and regrettable situation has arisen in relation to the city election—unfortunate because a good many innocent candidates are involved, regrettable because the men who have brought about the situation choose to work in the dark and therefore must be talked to while absent in person.

A ticket has been circulated unsigned, with no evidence of its sponsorship. Names of men were included on that ticket who were not associated politically or religiously or socially or otherwise with some of the others on the ticket. Some of those whose names were on the ticket felt that an injustice was done to them; and they were right, for an injustice that was rank and raw was done to them.

Added to that came the circulation of this same ticket at churches and elsewhere yesterday. The Register wishes to add its vigorous protest to those that have already been voiced against the circulation of unsponsored tickets, against the use of the name of the Protestant churches as backing a ticket concerning which the churches knew nothing, and more particularly do we protest against the circulation of that kind of thing at houses of worship. Any lover of fair play must recognize such tactics as have been used during the closing days of the city campaign as distinctly unfair and inexcusable. The springing of the "yellow dodger" at the eleventh hour was a trick in politics long since condemned by the American public.

BRITISH IMMIGRATION

For the first time since the enactment of an immigrant restriction law, after the big war, the British quota is being filled. For the fiscal year ending June 30 there was 77,342 British immigrants admissible. Already about 60,000 of them have come, and the rest have all booked passage. The steamship companies, accordingly, have spread the news in Great Britain that the lists are closed until July 1. By that time there will doubtless be a big waiting list.

This is one of the most interesting developments of the present immigration law. Industrial leaders say there is a crying need in this country for skilled workmen, and the British entrants fill the need admirably. Nearly all of them are trained industrialists. Most of them come from the big cities of Scotland. Yately the immigrants from Glasgow alone have averaged 1,000 a week and from Dundee, 200. There is also a good sprinkling of Irishmen from Dublin.

Thus Britain's loss is America's gain. The men are driven here by hopelessly bad industrial conditions at home—no work, and low pay for what jobs there are.

To most Americans, there is another advantage in this type of immigration, aside from its industrial bearing. These new-comers are of the race, language and general type of culture which built our own nation in the beginning and have set its standards and ideals ever since. They are more easily Americanized than immigrants from any other European country. Thus, if we are to have any immigration at all, such immigrants are doubly welcome.

FREAKISM WILL PASS

Cubism, futurism and other freakish forms of art are dying in Europe. America laughed them to death, say George Zolnay, sculptor.

That's only partly so. Freak art comes in waves or cycles. The present cycle apparently is near its natural end. The cubist or futurist artist sees nature in a distorted way. So he is sincere and correct when he claims he interprets nature as he sees it. And that is about all you can say for him.

After all, freak ideas and freak movements are doomed to die. The great balance wheel of the world is common sense—just common, ordinary horse sense—which can be applied to art just as sanely and honestly as it can to anything else.

Speaking of the Last Rose of Summer, "Old Posey" led the recent Piute Indian outbreak.

WHAT WILL THEY BUY?

In France they're excited, elated, because their exports in 1922 were nearly 14 billion francs more than in 1913. However, the franc isn't worth what it used to be. So if you crack the beautiful shell of the nut and peer inside you find that the actual tonnage or weight of French exports last year was about the same as in 1913.

The price hoax is an international delusion, inherited from the warboon period when people were hypnotized by much money though the buying power of the money correspondingly shrank. Not the number of dollars but what the dollars will buy, is the important thing.

MOVIE PALACE MOVE IN

New York's famous Shanley restaurant, on Broadway, has closed and the building will be torn down. In its place there is to be erected a "palace of the motion picture" costing $10,000,000.

Thus the once humble film continues to triumph, pressing even into the heart of the greatest "legitimate" theater district in the world.

And that is all right. There is room for all, and the field is free. There is a natural tendency, though, to question whether the movie stage, in its present development, is really deserving of $10,000,000 palaces. There can be no doubt that it might be, under good artistic direction, with such help as may be gained from scientific improvements and new inventions.

Eventually, possibly, the films will give a combination of first-class pictured and spoken drama, not only in Broadway palaces but in every town in the country.

THE SOLID SOUTH

The "Solid South" was coined as a political phrase. Today it may be used fairly to describe the South financially, industrially and along all lines of business activity. Fred Starek, director of the War Finance corporation, is the latest witness to this effect. He has just completed an inspection tour of the southern states, and is enthusiastic over conditions.

Mr. Starek found the cotton, tobacco, cattle and other agricultural industries all on the up grade. In the last few months nearly 60 per cent of the $90,000,000 lent by the corporation in these districts has been repaid. Requests for loans are declining, and if the boll weevil can be held in check few applications are to be expected during the coming year.

This is a record of which any section of the country might be proud. It is increasingly important as applying to a region the resources of which have been under-estimated and under-developed for half a century. Truly the South is coming along, and it will not be long until all of its many possibilities will at least be in process of development if not entirely realized.

Where Once Were Forests

—San Bernardino Sun.

Mountain lovers are familiar with the spectacle of burnt-over wastes, for one can hardly go into the hills in any direction without seeing the effect of the fires that in recent years or some more remote time have swept the slopes, leaving only charred trunks and stumps behind them. What will be done with those waste and burnt over and cut over lands?

If the few thousands of acres in the San Bernardino mountains constituted the extent of the land of that character, it might not be worth a second thought. But there are in the United States, 213,000,000 acres of that kind of waste land. In California, total, there is an area of 101,310,000 acres. So these waste lands in the United States that once grew trees are in extent equal to more than twice the whole area of the state of California.

Along with this illuminating statement as to the extent of the waste area should be coupled the forest made as the result of careful estimates, to the effect that within the five-year period between 1935 and 1940, the last of the available standing timber in the United States will have been cut and used, unless we begin to import heavily from Canada and Alaska.

If this land were being put to some other beneficial use there might be less basis for the protest, but we see what is done with the privately owned land in these neighboring mountains that has been cut over or burned over, and just the same neglect characterizes the ownership elsewhere and everywhere.

We are not specially—at least politically—interested in the differences between Governor Richardson and his Forestry Board—it will be remembered that former Governor George C. Pardee resigned as head of the Forestry Board because of reduced appropriations in the Governor's budget, but a part of the "publicity" put out in its interest some weeks ago will bear studying when the budget is disposed of. It was as follows:

There are thousands of acres of cut-over timber land in the State of California upon which taxes have been allowed to become delinquent. These lands could be acquired by the State by the simple process of enacting a law providing that where title to such land came to the State by reason of delinquent taxes that the State should hold the same. It requires no prophecy to show that by this simple process the State would eventually own a very large percentage of the timber land of the State, and if the policy should be enlarged (and it certainly should), by making a reasonable appropriation so that the State could buy cut-over lands and prevent fires in the same, we might at least delay the evil day when the Pacific coast will be without timber; but instead of this policy, which by the way was advocated by the Conservation Commission during the sessions of the legislature during 1911 and 1912, the present policy with reference to our forests seems to be to cut off the relatively small amount of money that is needed to maintain an efficient State Board of Forestry. We seem to be proceeding on the theory that we can destroy our forests and not suffer consequences, which history teaches us other people have suffered by destroying their forests.

It is evident that private ownership will not reforest these devastated areas. Where the Government is in control, it is doing much in the way of reforesting, but not for the purpose of growing timber to be used as lumber. Water conservation is the first consideration. The money the State might now use in reforestation would not be returned in kind to this generation, but when one comes to think of it, this generation did not pay much to the growth and development of the forests which it has so ruthlessly cut and marketed.

Even Circuses Proclaim It

—San Bernardino Sun.

There is no better barometer of general business conditions and the public's buying power than the circus. When people begin to seriously economize, the man in the ticket wagon is quick to sense the situation. Yet Charles Ringling, one of the famous brothers owning the big show for which E. P. Norwood, formerly of this city, is head of the publicity department, declares prosperity is general throughout the country. Says he:

Ordinarily the circus itinerary is mapped with particular care to avoid sections of the country not prospering and to jump past cities in which business is not good. This year we could select our itinerary blindly. Business everywhere is good.

San Bernardino had a vivid example of that very method of selection last year. Much as Mr. Norwood would have wished the Ringlings to show in San Bernardino for the first time since the show had been coming to the Pacific Coast, it left this city off its route, because its management presumed that a railroad shop strike then in progress would have seriously interfered with business conditions. That would mean, if correctly diagnosed, that patronage for the circus would not be up to standard, and the Ringlings therefore showed in Santa Ana.

The opinion expressed by Mr. Ringling is a conservative estimate of business conditions the country over.

Newspaperman's Philosophy

—San Francisco Chronicle.

Harry H. Tamm, owner of the Denver Post, in an interview, a few days ago characterized kindness as man's best trait. Kindness, he avers, conquers the world.

"Be kind to yourself," he urges. "Be kind to everybody. Be kind to your work. Be kind to materials you use or handle. Be kind to money. Kindness is peace, prosperity, progress. Kindness knows no enemy. Kindness conquers the world."

Kindness, the desire to serve, pride in one's work, self-reliance, good will, concentration of energy and self-discipline, these things, so Tamm says, are the foundation stones of success. Success, he says, "is nothing but crystallized endeavor."

These are things we all know. They are truths we all realize. Tamm seeks to teach no new lesson. His homely philosophy has in it nothing of mystery. The trouble with most of us is that we are of those who "having eyes see not and having ears hear not."

THE CITY MANAGER

Real Democracy in City Government

—BY H. S. GILBERTSON

FOURTEENTH ARTICLE

(This is the fourteenth and last of a series of articles on the City-Manager plan, by H. S. Gilbertson of the National Municipal League.)

The advocates of the city-manager plan recognized that, however great might be the need in any community for economy and a "business administration" at the city hall, the first thought should be that there be no sacrifice of real democracy to a much abused and perhaps too well advertised ideal of "efficiency."

Indeed, the driving power behind the whole movement was the idea of doing away with false, discredited forms of democracy that played into the hands of the few professionals or political experts who have always thrived in the complexities of city government.

Since the councilmen are directors of policy only, and therefore are only required to devote a few hours a week to public business, the people are free to expand their field of selection beyond the old list of chronic job holders, and consider representative citizens whose private business affairs are too big to be relinquished for an old-style job.

The city-manager plan, moreover, lends itself perfectly to a scheme of representation that gives a voice to every considerable element in the town.

What this means in practice is best illustrated by the composition of the councils in Astabula or Sacramento. These cities have "proportional representation"—sometimes referred to familiarly as "P. R."—which is another way of saying that under this system of voting each man in the council stands for a group of citizens who have a common interest and think pretty much alike on public affairs.

The result of such a plan is a governing body which is bound to be an excellent miniature of the whole city. Here, for example, is the composition of the council in one city which adopted "P. R.": A widely known and reputable physician, a popular wealthy lawyer, an advertising manager with a creditable record of local public service, a manufacturer with public spirit and liberal leanings, an active Socialist editor, the president of the Chamber of Commerce and a vigorous liberal young business man.

A feature of the record is the increased prominence of labor. Dubuque, Dayton, Springfield and Sandusky are examples of cities where labor men sit on the board.

Under the city-manager plan, the governing body can be just as democratic as the town wishes.

But, regardless of any method of selecting the officials, it is fundamentally democratic because of its simplicity and because of the responsibility which it imposes on the men chosen to operate it.

The plan abolishes "one-man" power, for it is the council and not the manager which governs. In the old-style mayor-and-council plan, the election of a fool mayor is something of a calamity, from which there is no escape.

The manager, on the other hand, is subject to continuous control by the group. There have been misfit managers, just as there have been misfit mayors, but they have been put in their place or removed with little ado.

THE END.

Worth While Verse

THE MOUNTAINS STOOP TO HILLS

The mountains stoop to hills and hills to stones,
That shrug and wrinkle, hunch their back and crook
A rhythmic stairway for the water tones
To strike clear intervals and cause a brook
To lead a melody, arpeggios
Might hurry to a precipice and lose,
If shorter gaps, cautious rests, softer blows
Forgot to intervene, or art to choose:
Below, the music broadens to a stream,
An island interrupts with dissonance;
But contrapuntal fusion saves the theme,
And reaches resolution in the sea:
Horizons round the cadence, close the trance
Whose stones and water carve a symphony.

To Protect National Parks

—Sacramento Bee

Those interested in preserving the national parks—the playground of an ever-increasing number of the nation's citizenry—will find satisfaction in a recent statement of Dr. Hubert Work, who recently became secretary of the interior. He said:

Our national parks have been set aside by the American government to be maintained untouched by the inroads of modern civilization, so that you and your children may enjoy them.

These unspoiled native bits of America are for you. They are recreation parks of the people. To visit them and see them is to inspire pride, and make more real our deep love for our country.

There speaks one who should hold inviolable the trust committed to him as an official of the federal government. If Dr. Work honestly feels the lure and the beauty of the wild places of the nation, he will not permit the incursions of private intent on their spoilage.

His words promise the continuance of the wise and far-seeing policy established by Theodore Roosevelt.

If he is loyal to them, no one need fear the public interest will suffer under this direction of the interior department.

BY THEODORE E. BURTON
U. S. Representative from Ohio,
Twenty-Second District

WAS walking to the House one autumn day and I noticed an old, white-haired darky putting coal into one of the government office buildings.

As I passed, he smiled and said: "Mornin', senator."

That flattered me a little, since I wasn't a senator, so I stopped and asked him his name.

"George Washington, senator," he answered.

"H'm, George Washington, eh? Seems to me I've heard that name somewhere before."

"Very likely, senator, very likely; I been doin' this sort of thing round here now for about 25 years."

The Great Century

It was a long time before the possession of metal resulted in copper tools which made possible great architecture in stone. Not more than 150 years before the great pyramid of Gizeh, the Egyptians were still building the tombs of their kings out of sun-baked brick. Such a royal tomb was at first merely a chamber in the ground, roofed with wood and covered with a mound of sand and gravel.

The most skillful workman among them found out that he could use his copper tools to cut square blocks of limestone, and line the chamber with these blocks in place of the soft bricks. So far as we know, this was the first piece of stone masonry ever put together. It can hardly be called a building, for like a cellar wall, it was all below the ground. The next step, a real building above ground, was still of brick. It was soon followed by a terraced structure of stone for the king's tomb, the earliest surviving building of stone masonry ever erected. We know the name of the royal architect, Imhotep, the earliest architect to put up a building of stone masonry. He flourished just after

Attention

—By Berton Braloy

Man is ever easy meat.

For the truly clever woman,

She can have him at her feet.

If she'll treat him with acumen;

What's the secret, what's the charm

Which will very subtly woo him?

Be he from the town or farm—

Listen to him!

Heard upon his spoken word,
Hearken to his conversation;
Act as though you'd never heard,
As though you'd never heard.

Such a fund of information;
Though with boredom you grow wan,

Still, with seeming wonder, view him

As he babbles on and on—

Listen to him!

Old or young or great or small,

Man is easy prey for stalking.

And he'll nearly always fall

For the dame who keeps him talking;

Eve on Adam tried that plan

(Oh, how thoroughly she knew him)

And it works on modern man—

Listen to him!

Carelessly Lost

Freight losses and damages on all American railroads combined average $100,000,000 a year, an expert estimates.

Since such losses in the long run are butted out and shared about equally by everybody, each of us knows where $1 of our year's income goes. Better news: While the average is $100,000,000 a year since 1918, the figure for 1922 was only $50,000,000, which means that we are getting more careful as we return to normalcy.—Columbia Record.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

—Olive Roberts Barton

No. 1041—IN THE CARD-BOARD HOUSE

"What do you wish to see me about?" asked the Cut-Out Lady, when Nancy and Nick had seated themselves carefully on the floor of the cardboard house so as not to knock it over.

Again their Green Shoes had been a wonderful help, for, of course, they had to make themselves little-wee to get into her front door.

Nancy looked at Nick and Nick looked at Nancy, for now that they had come to their journey's end, it was going to be hard to tell the poor Cut-Out Lady what they wanted.

"It's always hard to tell the cook her biscuits are heavy and to please make better ones. It's hard to tell the butcher man his meat is tough and not to send any more like it."

So now the Twins found it hard to tell the Cut-Out Lady that she wasn't doing good mending and was sewing the Gingerbread Man's buttons on crooked.

The two turned very red and hardly knew what to say. The Cut-Out Lady guessed that something was the matter at once.

"Oh, you needn't be afraid," she said quickly. "Go right ahead and tell me anything you please. You see I have no feelings so I don't mind anything at all."

"Oh!" cried Nancy. "We thought you had feelings or you wouldn't get cross when your cat comes home without any fur after the knock-knock dog has barked it off."

"I wouldn't mind it a bit," answered the Cut-Out Lady, "but as I was cut out of a book and there is printing on the other side of me it changes everything. The word 'hate' is printed right where my heart ought to be. So I get cross sometimes, but I never get offended."

That reminded Nick of the flat white peppermint heart he had pulled off the candy tree. It said "I love you" on it, in red letters.

"We have brought you this," he said, digging it out of his pocket. "If you like, we'll paste it on you."

"Please do," begged the Cut-Out Lady. "But tell me the bad news first so I won't care so much."
